CITY REBUILDING HOPE PINNED ON SLUM CLEARING

Hail New Program as Practical Step.

The slow destruction of old age that is creeping over sections of the city near the loop can be halted by architects, builders, landscape designers, and real estate developers. This hope was held out yesterday by Elmer C. Jensen, president of the Chicago Building Congress, in an address before the City Club of Chicago in the La Salle hotel.

Elmer C. Jensen.

Jensen said enactment of the neighborhood development bill drafted by the building congress would open the door for private capital to help salvage the city's rundown areas. The proposed measure provides for the creation of privately financed redevelopment corporations possessing power to condemn land of minority owners who stand in the way of slum clearance projects. The measure will be submitted to the state legislature soon after it convenes next month. A final hearing on the proposed bill will be held Friday morning before the city council subcommittee on housing.

Spur to Private Capital Expected.

"When this bill becomes a law," Jensen said, "we may hope that the reconstruction of our city will become a fact. Private capital then will have an opportunity to demonstrate that slum clearance can be accomplished on a basis that is economically sound."

Jensen was supported by Max L. Loewenberg, a fellow architect and chairman of the City Club's committee on zoning and planning. Loewenberg said the proposed law contains the germ of the rebirth of Chicago's slums.

"The bill creates the machinery by which private enterprise can attack the problem of rebuilding our city," Loewenberg said. "Time alone can tell whether private building corporations will be able to do the job successfully. The proposed law at least will give them the opportunity which now is lacking."

Holdout Owners Main Obstacle.

Backers of the measure believe the provision giving the redevelopment corporations power to condemn land will spur the use of private funds in slum clearance.

Building authorities have said the difficulty in acquiring land from recalcitrant property owners, who refuse to sell except at exorbitant prices, has been a serious obstacle to slum reclamation. The proposed measure was drafted to clear this hurdle. Under it the power to condemn land would be exercised under the supervision of special local commissions.

Jensen said the present owners of real estate in depreciated areas are reluctant to rebuild their properties because they have been unable to act together or to borrow the money needed for improvements. He said the only recourse is the private corporation with funds available to venture into reconstruction projects.

Subject to Same Laws.

Jensen said the proposed corporations would be subject to the same laws as other corporations and would be supervised by local redevelopment commissions. In Chicago the commission would consist of three members appointed by the mayor and the city council. This commission would have authority to approve building projects submitted by redevelopment corporations.

Before a project would be approved the corporation would be required to show that the area in which the work was planned actually was run down, that the building program conformed with the city's master plan, and that the project would not cause undue hardship on families living in the neighborhood.

Areas Would Be Limited.

The corporations would be limited to projects embracing not less than two city blocks or more than forty acres. Ten per cent of each site would be devoted to parks, playgrounds, or recreation centers. The corporation would be required to prove that it had acquired 60 per cent of the land in the proposed site before condemnation proceedings could be started.

City to Greet New Year with Joy and Hope

Not much of Chicago's adult population is expected to be in bed tonight when 1941 breaks thru at midnight.

Many will disport themselves with hats, horns, hilarity, and potential headaches. Many will gather in churches and temples to pray that the new year will be less troubled than its predecessor.

If the predictions of church leaders are fulfilled, as many persons will greet 1941 with prayer as with gay festivity, and in every church the prayers for 1941 will be principally prayers for peace.

500,000 Expected in Loop.

If the predictions of Capt. David Flynn, chief of the traffic police, are fulfilled, a roaring 500,000 Chicagoans of varying ages over 16 will be swarming in or out of hotels, restaurants, and night clubs or over curbstones when the New Year is ushered in.

To cope with, or protect the revelers, Capt. Flynn will concentrate 198 policemen in the loop alone. In addition, he will place 85 traffic policemen at congested crossings elsewhere. Seventy-five motorcycle men and 85 accident prevention men also will be on duty.

Thruout the city revelry is expected to be at a supreme level. Hotels and night clubs report a heavy demand for reservations at prices ranging over an average of $7.50 a person [plus tax] to a high of $12.50 a person and a new low of $1. At the latter spot, 3,700 merrymakers are expected.

Policemen to Be "on Toes."

"Everybody," says the captain, meaning all his men, "will be on their toes. They will work until 4 in the morning, when everybody will be gone home. If not, they ought to be."

Altho New Year's day as such has no religious significance, many churches make New Year's eve watch services important, and most of the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, and Lutheran churches in Chicago will hold such services tonight. There will be no midnight masses in Catholic churches in the Chicago archdiocese, but a few churches, among them St. Agnes, St. Mary's, and old St. James, will have a 3 a. m. mass, and at St. James the historic chimes will peal in the new year at midnight.

STUDENT FEDERATION QUITS YOUTH GROUP AND ITS 'RADICALISM'

New Brunswick, N. J., Dec. 30 [Special].—The National Student Federation of America, one of the founders of the National Youth congress and representative of about 100 college student councils, by a vote of more than 3 to 1 withdrew today from the American Youth congress because of that organization's alleged radical tendencies. The A. Y. C. has frequently been accused of being controled by communists.

The federation refused to affiliate with the International Student service, which offered to supply financial aid to the distressed federation if the two groups were merged. The federation questioned the "altruism" of the International Student service, in which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has officially interested herself since disagreement with Youth congress policies.

Before the vote to disaffiliate passed, 87 to 24, Miss Frances Williams, executive secretary of the American Youth congress, answered questions about the congress. She defended the presence in the organization of such radical organizations as the Young Communist league on the ground that they represented a real section of youth. She denied that money for support of the congress came from Moscow.

11 FORMER U. S. WARSHIPS STAY IN N. AMERICA PORTS

Boston, Mass., Dec. 30 (AP).—Eleven of the 50 American destroyers traded to Britain for Atlantic bases still are at Halifax, N. S., and St. John's, Newfoundland, for lack of crews to take them across the ocean to England, the crew of the British freighter Dromore said today on arrival from those ports. The Furness Line seamen, completing a voyage from Liverpool, said they saw seven of the warships at Halifax and four at St. John's. Others, however, are on convoy-escort duty in the Liverpool area, they said.

Claim Gibraltar Receives New Supply of Munitions

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 30 (AP).—Spanish reports from Algeciras today said large new supplies of munitions are arriving at Gibraltar and other defense preparations are proceeding rapidly. Algeciras is across the bay from the British fortress rock.

Boy Stabbed; Heart Lifted Out and Fixed

New York, Dec. 30 [Special].—In a drama of surgery the heart of a 9 year old boy, stabbed accidentally, was speedily lifted out, sewed up, and replaced in time to save his life, it was revealed today at Jamaica hospital, Queens.

The lad, Richard Guerin, was recovering tonight.

Early last night Richard went to his mother's room in their home in Jamaica. With her pointed hair-cutting scissors he began cutting out paper play money from a newspaper comic page.

Then—the Accident.

When his father, Edmund, remarked, "Time for bed, Dicky," the boy leaped onto the bed. The scissors caught in a fold of the coverlet and pierced his heart. He screamed, pulled the blades out, and slumped unconscious.

The Operation Follows.

The surgeons cut into the chest cavity and lifted the heart out to the chest surface. They drained the cavity of blood. Then they laid back the pericardium, or membranous sac. They took three stitches in the left ventricle, where the scissors had penetrated. Then they closed the pericardium and replaced the heart in its proper position.

From the operating table the boy was rushed to a bed and given a transfusion of his father's blood.

She Fails to Take Anti-Air Raid Training; Goes to Jail

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—A woman who failed to appear for training in the antiair raid services in Wiesbaden was sentenced to two months' imprisonment today. Testimony was introduced to show that her claim of illness was untrue. The court said it was the duty of every German to participate in air raid protection training.

EXTEND WAR AID PLAN TO CHINA AND THE GREEKS

Morgenthau Tells New Lending Idea.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—After a conference with President Roosevelt and Arthur B. Purvis, head of the British purchasing commission, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. said today that the administration's plan of lending or leasing aid to Great Britain may be extended to Greece and China.

Morgenthau said that the loan-lease plan to Britain "might apply to anybody." He added, however, that any application of the policy to Britain or any other country depends upon congressional action. Legislation to authorize and supply funds for the arms purchases is needed, he noted.

Refuses Any Details.

Morgenthau declined to comment on the matters which he had discussed with Mr. Roosevelt and Purvis. He said that his meeting with Purvis was "for the purpose of going into his problems," and added that "it didn't begin to cover 10 per cent of the ground."

"He was informing me as to what he has learned concerning Britain's needs," Morgenthau said.

Morgenthau denied that any mention of a specific timetable for aid to Britain has been made to him, saying that the only time limit discussed was "as fast as possible."

Conversations on Aircraft.

Chinese officials also have been discussing with the treasury the possibility of shipments of warplanes to that country, Morgenthau said, but added that "there just aren't enough planes to go around."

"They may have gotten five or ten planes in the last six months," Morgenthau said, "but I doubt if it's been more."

Morgenthau refused to comment on reports that the United States might seize or purchase foreign merchant vessels tied up in American ports. He disclaimed any knowledge of reports that the coast guard had already inspected these ships.

BRITAIN BUYS CLIPPERS

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 30 (AP).—The Baltimore Sun said tonight it had learned that three of Pan-American Airways' six new transoceanic flying boats now under construction had been sold to the British government.

The sale had the approval of the United States government, the Sun said, and "it is reported that the transaction was carried out at the behest of the state department, as a means of further aid to Great Britain."

Useful for Patroling.

The planes are not designed for military use, but would be useful for long range patrol flights over the North Atlantic. They are valuable especially for their load carrying capacity and great range.

Sale price to the British was reported to be $1,000,000 a plane. The Sun said it was testified at a hearing before the civil aeronautics board in Washington, D. C., recently by Pan-American Airway officials that the air line would pay the manufacturer $4,600,000 for all six ships.

First Nearly Ready.

The first of the six planes, being built at Boeing's Seattle, Wash., factory, is almost ready for test flights, the paper said, and a British flight crew is on its way to the United States "to undergo a course of instruction in the operation of the aircraft."

Other crews are expected to be sent for instruction as quickly as the second and third ships are completed, the Sun continued.

ENVOY LEAHY AT LISBON; TO VISIT MADRID

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 30 (AP).—Admiral William D. Leahy, new United States ambassador to Vichy, France, said tonight he expected to arrive at his post on Jan. 5.

Arriving here with Mrs. Leahy aboard the United States cruiser Tuscaloosa, he planned to leave by train tomorrow for Madrid, where he intended to spend three or four days.

Admiral Leahy said he met the French chief of state, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, several years ago in New York, and added, "America's friendly feelings for France are as strong as ever. We have many historical and intellectual ties and sincerely hope that France will come out well from all her misfortunes."

'AMERICA FIRST' DRIVE SPREADS ACROSS NATION

The America First committee, pledged to prevent rabid interventionists from leading the United States, step by step, into the European war, expects to take its case directly to congress thru the people of the country at large, Gen. Robert E. Wood, acting national chairman, announced here yesterday. Plans have been completed for this campaign and zooming membership in the committee indicates it is reflecting the true sentiment of the nation, he said.

Gen. Robert E. Wood.

Altho the committee is less than four months old, active chapters already are functioning in 15 principal cities in the eastern portion of the country and there are members in hundreds of other communities, said Gen. Wood. More than 60,000 persons are now contributing personal time and effort to assure a continuance of peace, he added, and the chief problem of the day is to assist in setting up new America First committee chapters in the middle west where the strongest antiwar sentiment has been found.

Raps "War Declaration."

Gen. Wood paused in his work yesterday to charge that President Roosevelt's Sunday night radio address was "virtually a personal declaration of an undeclared war on Germany." The general added that in flatly rejecting the idea of a negotiated peace the President is taking upon himself a share of responsibility for the continuation of the war.

"We expect to be prepared to go into action in our congressional drive for peace when the present holiday recesses in Washington are over," the general said. "When the newly elected congress convenes we'll be ready to bear down."

Plan Educational Campaign.

The various branches of the committee will conduct an educational campaign to bring home to citizens at large momentous peace issues now before the nation, some of the general's assistants explained. Considerable literature is now being printed and will be distributed widely. Citizens will be apprised of their rights in telling elected representatives of their personal wishes in this matter of surpassing importance.

All committees will be independent and will be directed to carry on their work in their own fashion. All, however, will adhere to the general principles of the America First movement.

Among developments yesterday was the merging with the America First committee of the Roll Call of American Women, a national women's civic organization. Leaders of the Roll Call, including Miss Harriet E. Vittum, nationally known settlement worker, and Mrs. Margaret Ayer Barnes, Pulitzer prize winning writer, believe that the most important civic work now being conducted in the United States is the committee's efforts to keep America at peace.

Ranks Swelled by 10,000.

"We have 10,000 members in 500 cities and 41 states," said Miss Jessamine Hoagland, executive vice president of the Roll Call yesterday. "We have at various times dedicated ourselves to important work. But we think that the job of keeping the United States out of Europe's war is the greatest thing we can do. We're ready to help in every way."

In referring to the President's "fireside chat," Gen. Wood said:

"In view of all the pledges made during the campaign we think the American people wanted to hear the President say clearly and without equivocation that we should continue to give all possible help to Britain, but not to the point of involving ourselves. They did not hear him say this.

Asks "Last Ditch" Clarification.

"Instead, they heard him enunciate what appears to be another policy, that of keeping the country out of what the President calls a 'last ditch war.'

"Does this new phrase mean that we might fight a war in some foreign ditch now, while we are unprepared, to avoid a possible war later?

"The President's reaffirmation of his determination not to send American boys abroad is welcome but it has an empty ring if it is accompanied by a series of acts that inexorably moves us toward war and makes another A. E. F. inevitable.

"The President does the nation no service by creating a false sense of insecurity. We are not facing the fate of Belgium. To say so or imply so is defeatism."

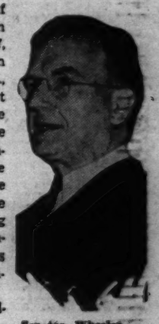
SOUNDS APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE: DON'T BE SHEEP!

Offers 8 Point Plan for Peace.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Asserting that the United States is as close to the brink of war as it was in January, 1917, Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], tonight appealed to the American people to assert themselves and not be "driven like sheep to the slaughtering pens" by the interventionists and war mongers.



Senator Wheeler.

Senator Wheeler spoke over a nation-wide radio network in reply to President Roosevelt's "fireside" chat of last night. He said the people heard Mr. Roosevelt's promise that there would be no American expeditionary force, but received no promise that our ships and sailors and planes and pilots will not be sent to Europe in the near future.

Delivers a Warning.

"If we lend or lease war materials today, we will lend or lease American boys tomorrow," said the leader of the senate noninterventionists.

Senator Wheeler deplored Mr. Roosevelt's intimation that those who advocate a negotiated peace are "appeasers" and unwitting dupes of foreign powers.

Insisting that the only way to banish Hitlerism permanently is to destroy the conditions which produced Nazism, the senator defined what he means by a just and reasonable peace settlement as follows:

1. Restoration of Germany's 1914 boundaries with an autonomous Poland and Czecho-Slovakia.
2. Restoration of independent France, Holland, Norway, Belgium, and Denmark.
3. Restoration of Alsace-Lorraine to France.

Restoration of Colonies.

4. Restoration of German colonies.
5. Protection of all racial and religious minorities in all contries.
6. Internationalization of the Suez canal.
7. No indemnities or reparations.
8. Arms limitation.

The Montana senator quoted the late Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, as saying of Nazism: "In great measure it was rebellion against the discriminations of the treaty of Versailles."

Altho expressing a sympathy for Great Britain which he said is exceeded only by the depth and sincerity of his Americanism, Senator Wheeler ridiculed President Roosevelt's argument that a Nazi victory would be followed by an attack upon the United States.

"If Hitler's army can't cross the narrow English channel in seven months," he said, "his bombers won't fly across the Rockies to bomb Denver tomorrow."

"End of Democracy."

For the United States to go into the war, Senator Wheeler declared, would mean the end of democracy in this country.

"War inevitably means back breaking debt, blighted lives, bedeviled futures, the end of civil liberties, the end of free speech, free press, free enterprise," he said. "It means dictatorship and slavery—all the things we abhor in Nazism, communism, and Fascism. It means Stalin or Hitler will have achieved their boasts for a totalitarian world without conquering America."

The senator asserted that "war mongers, sordid romanticists, reckless adventurers, and some whose sympathies and sentiments are stronger than their reasoning powers," are seeking to plunge this country into the war. He quoted the late Sir Gilbert Parker, who was Britain's publicity agent in America, on the effectiveness of British propaganda in this country before America entered the last war.

Assails "Foreign Slackers."

There are present in this country today, he said, "A lot of foreign slackers—European royalty—princes and potentates and their idolators who, instead of being wined and dined in high places in Washington and urging us to go to war, ought to be home fighting the battles for liberty and Christianity they so glibly tell us about."

Senator Wheeler earnestly urged the people not to permit themselves to be deluded by mass hysteria. He reminded them that 15 years after the last war, when the secret treaties were exposed, they realized they had been duped.

"Has this war a sweeter odor than the last?" he asked.

SEN. WHEELER'S SPEECH

"The views I express to you tonight are not the views of the Washington Evening Star which has generously afforded me an opportunity to speak to you—they are not the views of any international banker—nor are they dictated by interventionists or war mongers.

"The thoughts I am about to express are not based upon any fear of wild boasts of American conquest by Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini. I know that neither they nor their ideologies will capture the people of the United States or our imagination to the point that we would adopt Fascism, Communism or Naziism as an American doctrine.

"You and I are Americans—and as Americans, of course, we are interested in the well-being of the people of all the world. Coming as we do from the four corners of the earth we know that our business, our race, and our religion color our reaction to any European war. We know that today wars in Europe or Asia affect us economically, politically, and emotionally.

Great Problems at Home.

"We sympathize with the oppressed and persecuted everywhere.

"We also realize that we have great problems at home—that one-third of our population is ill-fed, ill-housed and ill-clad—and we have been told repeatedly—upon the highest authority—that unless and until this situation is corrected our democracy is in danger. I fully subscribe to this view.

"Believing as I do in this thesis, I cannot help but feel that we should settle our own problems before we undertake to settle the problems of Asia, Africa, Australasia, South America, and Europe.

"As Americans—interested first in America—what is our present stake? Our stakes are our independence, our democracy, and our trade and commerce. Every red-blooded American would fight to preserve them.

Two Schools of Thought.

"What is the best way to preserve them? There are two schools of thought. One group feels—as they felt before the last world war—that England is our first line of defense—and that we must go to England's aid every time she declares war—and that some European dictator is after rich loot in the United States—perhaps our gold buried in the hills of Kentucky.

"This group wants to repeal our neutrality act and the Johnson act—they want to loan our ships, our guns, and our planes—even tho it may involve us in the European conflict. They profess to believe it is necessary for the preservation of our country, our religion, and civilization.

"We were told the same things in almost the same terms before the last war.

"The other group feels that we should build our defenses to meet any emergency that may arise. But we do not believe that the preservation of the American people or our democracy depends upon any foreign nation. It is hard for us to visualize a nation of 130 million people so weak that we cannot defend ourselves—when our forefathers in the 13 original colonies—poor, divided, and weak—were not only able to conquer an army already in our midst but to build the greatest democracy the world has ever known.

Hates Hitler, Too.

"Just as I love the United States so do I dislike Hitler and all that he symbolizes. My sympathy for the British is both deep and genuine—and is exceeded only by the depth and sincerity of my Americanism. No anti-British feeling dictates my opposition to the evasion or repeal of the Johnson and neutrality acts.

"I am opposed to American convoy of British ships. I oppose all these because they lead us down that road with only one ending—total, complete and futile war. And Mr. William Allen White, chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, agrees that the convoying of British ships by American vessels and the repeal of the neutrality and Johnson acts would mean war for us.

"Remember, if we lend or lease war materials today, we will lend or lease American boys tomorrow. Last night we heard the President promise that there would be no American expeditionary force, but we received no promises that our ships and sailors, and our planes and pilots might not at some time within the near future be cast into the cauldrom of blood and hate that is Europe today.

Call Invasion Fantastic.

"Our independence can only be lost or compromised if Germany invades the western hemisphere north of the equator. This would be fantastic, as it would require the transportation of at least two million men, with planes, tanks, and equipment, in one convoy across the Atlantic. This would require two or three thousand transports, plus a fleet larger than our navy, plus thousands of fighter-escorted bombers.

"Such a fleet cannot possibly be available. Certainly it cannot be trained efficiently before our two ocean navy is ready. It is not possible for the German navy to prepare an effective plan for such an invasion which our navy and army with our air force cannot defeat. Remember, Hitler has already been seven months in vainly trying to cross 20 miles. If Hitler's army can't cross the narrow English channel in seven months his bombers won't fly across the Rockies to bomb Denver tomorrow.

"The only threat to our independance would be to join in some 'union of free nations,' so-called, in which we would be but a unit and outnumbered and outgeneraled by our good neighbors across the sea.

How to Preserve Democracy.

"Democracy! We cannot hold our democracy except by prosperity and improvement in the mechanics of democracy. This will not be aided by joining the war.

"The cost of this war will come out of the millions of poor people—the common folk of the world who will toil for generations to pay the cost of the destruction.

"War inevitably means back breaking debt, blighted lives, bedeviled futures. War means the end of civil liberties—the end of free speech, free press, free enterprise. It means dictatorship and slavery—all the things we abhor in Nazism, communism, and Fascism. It means Stalin or Hitler will have achieved their boast for a totalitarian world without conquering America.

"The President in his speech last night ridiculed the idea of a peace in Europe. Conceding all that he so eloquently said about 'outlaws,' the 'concentration camps,' and the 'servants of God in chains,'—what about Russia and Joseph Stalin's communism? And have we not recognized Hitler and Franco? Did we not at least acquiesce in Mussolini and all his works?

"If we follow the logic of Mr. Roosevelt, then we ought immediately to break off diplomatic relations with Russia, Italy, Germany, Japan, and other nations whose domestic and foreign policies we abhor.

After the War—What?

"And where do we go from there?

"Regardless of when or who is proclaimed victor in the present war, it cannot last forever. Peace—fleeting tho it may be—will eventually come to Europe. At some time in the future representatives of England and Germany will sit around a table—some time they will agree upon peace—and until that day the world suffers. Each of us—from the President of the United States to the most humble citizen—should exert his every effort for peace now.

"Removal of Hitler—even the defeat of the German armies—will not destroy that which Hitler symbolizes. Hitlerism can be destroyed and banished from Europe only by destroying that which caused or maintains Naziism.

"Ask yourselves who and what were responsible for the real birth and growth of Hitlerism.

Quotes Lord Lothian.

"Lord Lothian, until his recent death wartime ambassador from Great Britain to the United States, said of Nazism—I quote him—'In great measure it was rebellion against the discriminations of the treaty of Versailles . . .' That wasn't some Nazi sympathizer—that was your friend, Lord Lothian, speaking.

"I firmly believe the German people want peace just as any people prefer peace to war—and the offer of a just, reasonable, and generous peace will more quickly and effectively crumble Hitlerism and break the morale of the German people than all the bombers that could be dispatched over Berlin.

"A just peace is difficult—if not impossible—to abstractly define while war rages. It is too completely dependent on the attitude of the belligerents.

Suggest Basis for Peace.

"3. Restoration of Alsace-Lorraine to France.

"4. Restoration of German colonies.

"5. Protection of all racial and religious minorities in all countries.

"6. Internationalization of the Suez canal.

"7. No indemnities or reparations.

Running Toward War.

"The United States is no longer trudging along the road to war. We are running. Some feel that we have gone so fast and so far that there can be no stopping—no return to complete peace except via war. But we are at peace and we can remain at peace if either one of two lines of action is pursued. First, Americans in greater number must firmly resolve and express themselves, that we will fight no offensive war. And, secondly, we can remain at peace if the horrible European debacle of death and destruction ends in the near future.

"Tho today we stand as close to the brink of war as we stood in January of 1917—some people still oppose a European peace. War mongers, sordid romanticists, reckless adventurers, and some whose sympathies and sentiments are stronger than their reasoning powers would plunge this nation into war. Plunge us into a war from which we could gain nothing. Plunge us into a war that would destroy democracy—that would bring deep, harrowing anguish to millions of hearts. And how would they bring this to pass? They would take us in today as they did in 1917.

Tells of Last War.

"The Right Hon. Sir Gilbert Parker, writing for Harper's magazine of March, 1918, said of American entry into the last war: 'Practically since the day war broke out between England and the central powers I became responsible for American publicity. . . . We established connection with the man in the street thru cinema pictures of the army and navy, as well as thru interviews, articles, pamphlets, etc.

"'We had reports from important Americans constantly, and established association, by personal correspondence, with influential and eminent people of every profession in the United States, beginning with university and college presidents, professors and scientific men, and running thru all the ranges of the population.

"'We had our documents and literature sent to great numbers of public libraries, Y. M. C. A. societies, universities, colleges, historical societies, clubs and newspapers. It is hardly necessary to say that the work was one of extreme difficulty and delicacy.'

Sees Current Comparison.

"Do Sir Gilbert's words in any way explain the war-mongering telegram to the President urging greater aid to Britain? Has British propaganda again reached the college and university professors? Twenty-nine educators signed the highly publicized wire that urged steps that would take the United States into war on the side of Britain.

"And have you and I, 'the man in the street' felt the insidious force of war propaganda thru the movies?

"Is there another Sir Gilbert Parker in the United States? Perhaps not—but there are a lot of foreign slackers—European royalty—princes and potentates—and their idolators—who instead of being wined and dined in high places in Washington and urging us to go to war ought to be home fighting the battles for liberty and Christianity they so glibly tell us about. Poor things! As usual—they were forced to leave their country while their subjects had to remain to do the fighting.

"My friends, it is this satanically clever propaganda that appeals to the Christianity, the idealism, the humanity, and the loyalty of the American people that take us to war. It is this that we must resist. It is this that we must cast aside if we truly love our country and democracy. We must remain at peace and dedicate ourselves to effecting peace for a war-torn world.

Right to Opinions Survives.

"We have reached a strange situation in America when those who advocate peace—who do not follow the party line—are branded appeasers or unwitting tools of the dictators! This still is a democracy—and American citizens whose beliefs vary from those of the government ought not to be howled at or intimidated by threats of the FBI. Free speech still belongs to all the people—not to just a few at the top.

"I do not believe that the great majority of our people are eager to be embraced by war—and I call upon them not to be afraid to say so. I—for one—believe the policy advocated by the interventionists is insane because it will lead to total war—and war is insanity.

"I say so now and I intend to continue to say so—even if at the end I stand alone.

Beware Mass Hysteria.

"Americans! Do not let yourselves be swayed by mass hysteria. Do not travel again the road that you took in 1917. You hanged Bob La Follette in effigy because he opposed war—and lived to repent your action and put him in the hall of fame. Fifteen years after the war—when the secret treaties were exposed—you realized that you had been duped. Has history suddenly changed?

"Are the facts of yesterday no longer facts? Has this war a sweeter odor than the last? Don't let yourselves be misled by the so-called notables. Numerically they are few—a few hundred—even tho they command the newspaper headlines. But they do not speak for the mass of Americans. They do not represent labor, the farmer, the youth, the mothers or the fathers of America. The great mass of our people is inarticulate—but it is time you were heard. You must not be driven like sheep to the slaughtering pens.

Suggests War on Depression.

"There is a war that I call upon you to enter—a noble war which the royalty of Europe and our tory friends at home are unwilling to face—a war to end economic inequality and poverty and disease in this—the richest land in the world.

"America's war ought to be a war against industrial unemployment and low farm prices.

"Whether the stroke of 12 will usher in a really happy new year tomorrow night depends upon you—and upon your sincere loyalty to Christian ideals—'peace on earth to men of good will' is a sacred cause for which we should pray and work. Let your representatives in Washington know that you have not surrendered the independence of America to war mongers and interventionists—and God will bless America."

Holt, in Senate Speech, Calls Pro-War Groups 'Traitors'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Making one of his final speeches in the senate, Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.], today listed as "traitors" those who advised the entrance of this country into war.

Rush D. Holt.

Holt lashed newspapers, individuals, and radio commentators who advocate enlistment of this country into giving war supplies to Great Britain.

"The history of this thing will be shown," Holt commented, "and it will be found that these men are not sincere in this battle. I admire men who are sincere in the fight for democracy, but they have a motley crowd of profiteers and so-called patriots associated with them.

Assails Interventionist Strategy.

"What is the strategy today? Let us be honest about it. The strategy is to provoke the axis powers to declare war on us, and then say we are attacked. Such hypocrisy! It is the first time I know of in American history when we have been asked to sacrifice honor in order to get into war, and not to protect the country.

"People who seek to get us into this war—to send our sons to the blood saturated soil of Europe—are traitors.

"America is going to pay the penalty of a long, well financed plan of the internationalists to tie America to power politics.

"I again call the attention of the senate to the figures and the data I have put in the appendix of the record concerning this 'pure,' pious group on the William Allen White committee.

Many English Born.

"They talk about Col. Lindbergh's medals," Holt continued. "Why do they not tell about the more than 25 members of the William Allen White committee? Why do they not tell that Bishop Manning, Dr. Kingdon, and many more whose names I put into the record, are English born subjects?"

In checking the William Allen White committee, Holt said, there were found the following sponsors who had accepted medals and awards from belligerent nations: Col. Julius Ochs Adler, Frank Altschul, the Rev. Henry A. Atkinson, Lewis Douglas, Stephen Duggan, Victor Elting, Clifton D. Gray, Albert Guerrard, Hamilton Holt, Ruppert Hughes, Walter Hullihen, Bishop William T. Manning, Gen. John F. O'Ryan, George Rublee, Walter D. Scott, James T. Shotwell, Gerard Swope, John C. Ward, Stephen S. Wise, Louis Bromfield, William M. Chadbourne, Owen Johnson, Everett V. Meeks, Rufus B. Von Kleinsmid, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Robert J. Caldwell, Frederic R. Coudert, and others.

NAZIS CAST VEIL OF SILENCE OVER ROOSEVELT TALK

Believe Hitler and Aids Study Speech Closely.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—A shroud of silence was spread over last night's speech of President Roosevelt in Berlin today. It was not mentioned in the press and authorized spokesmen asserted they had nothing to say on the subject.

It was understood that the speech is being studied closely by Adolf Hitler and his aides. When Mr. Roosevelt made his so called "peace offensive" of 1939, Hitler replied in a speech before the reichstag. Whether he will do the same in this case could not be ascertained.

Cites U. S. Aid to Britain.

An article in the Dienst aus Deutschland, news commentary with close foreign office connections, was made available to foreign correspondents. The article said:

"Altho it may be presumed that there are points for discussion, the German press for the time has ignored the President's comment on the attitude of the United States of America toward the war in Europe and the far east.

"This reserve may be viewed as Berlin's desire to study the text carefully. But it is possible that it is also desired to emphasize that Berlin is in no hurry to clarify its attitude. Of course, Berlin has an interest in the matter of American aid to Britain and observes all developments in this connection with the attention they deserve.

"Also, it must not be overlooked that the attitude of other nonwarring nations has a bearing on the inner relations of Germany, Italy and Japan in view of the close friendship among them."

Paints U. S. as Aggressive.

Shipment of war materials to Britain under American flags or surrender to England of Italian and German ships in American ports "would be regarded by the axis powers as an open break of neutrality tantamount to United States entry into the war," the announcer said.

He said the axis repeated its "endorsement" of the Monroe Doctrine, meaning that "Europe should keep its hands off America, and America should keep its hands off Europe."

Wants Colonies Liquidated.

"With great frankness," the speaker declared that the axis "would regard it as a very good thing," if all European territorial possessions in the western hemisphere were liquidated to the interests of those countries in America.

"Nor, as far as the south Pacific is concerned, is there any objection whatsoever . . . if Australia and New Zealand elected to place themselves under the protection of the United States and Canada instead of Great Britain, together with all the southern Pacific islands at present belonging to Britain and France."

Refers to "New Order."

The President's statement that a new order in Europe would involve the United States in war, the announcer said, was a denial by Mr. Roosevelt of "Europe's right to settle her own internal affairs."

"If he [the President] denies this right, he is perfectly right in assuming it would lead to war."

The President is counting "on the ignorance of a large section of the American public" regarding two matters, he said—European affairs and "the real nature of their own credit and banking system."

"He identifies American interests with what we call the banking plutocracy, which as far as Europe is concerned, we are determined to destroy."

The axis powers will not "anticipate events," Gayda wrote in the newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia, and "are waiting for events to take shape." They want first to see exactly what form American help for Britain will take, he said.

The speech had been discounted in advance by many newspapers, which told their readers there still was an important current of American public opinion which "manifests considerable reluctance to be involved in war."

REACTION IN OTHER LANDS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

While among Britian's enemies the reaction to President Roosevelt's speech was reserved or critical, in Britain and in nations both of the old and new world where the President's stand is approved the reaction generally was favorable. Here, briefly, is how some of these nations viewed it:

BRITAIN—A spokesman called it "one of the most powerful, logical indictments ever spoken" and official circles saw in it "further proof of the courage and realism of the United States' attitude toward the European war. Britain faces her tasks now "with new defiance and faith," said the Evening Standard, published by Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production.

Sees Blow to Italy.

GREECE—The Greek press carried long accounts of the President's speech and the gist of them was that Italy had suffered a severe blow.

TURKEY—Turkish government circles, press, and the general public received the speech enthusiastically. The official Ankara radio said it constituted a "major turning point in the war." The newspaper Tan said that America has decided the result of this war, just as she did by entrance into the first world war.

French "Surprised."

FRANCE—Government circles in Vichy were surprised and sympathetic, informed sources said, but the government was forced to maintain reserve because of unoccupied France's situation.

SWITZERLAND—The Basel National Zeitung, one of the leading Swiss papers, voicing virtually the only free, neutral European comment on the Roosevelt speech, called it the clearest affirmation yet that "the United States wants to defeat the axis powers even if it does not wage war directly."

JAPAN—Unofficial Japanese sources said the President's reference to China's "great defense" indicated to them a commitment to further American aid for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government.

See U. S. Ready to Fight.

CHINA — Chinese political and press circles said that Mr. Roosevelt's mention that the American fleet was in the Pacific was regarded by them as an indication the United States was prepared to fight Japan if necessary.

MEXICO—The first newspaper to comment, Ultimas Noticias of Mexico City, said Mr. Roosevelt wants to get the United States into the war "and this is terrible for those, who, like ourselves, may be drawn into its orbit. . . . From last night there has been initiated, without any doubt whatsoever, the universal war."

ARGENTINA—Wherever Argentines gathered Mr. Roosevelt's speech was a topic of conversation, generally of approval, but no official or newspaper comment had appeared so far.

1,000 YANKEES READY TO LEAVE ORIENT; 200 WILL SAIL FROM JAPAN

SHANGHAI, Dec. 31, Tuesday (AP).—The American liner President Coolidge is scheduled to sail tomorrow for the United States via Kobe and Yokohama, where about 200 Americans will be added to the present passenger list of nearly 800.

Numerous other missionaries plan to go home on the President Pierce Jan. 6 and the President Taft Jan. 20, but many others are remaining at their posts or are slipping into the portion of China not occupied by Japanese troops.

U. S. COULD BRING WAR'S END, SAYS VERNE MARSHALL

Thwarting of Nazi Bid for Mediation Told.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Verne Marshall, editor of the Cedar Rapids [Ia.] Gazette and chairman of the No Foreign War committee, declared at a press conference today that the United States could end the European war by offering its services as mediator.

W. R. Davis. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Marshall came to Washington for the purpose of meeting some of the noninterventionist senators. At his request a small group of them were called together for a luncheon meeting by Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.]. Senators who attended the conference made no comment on Marshall's proposals.

Tells of Emissary to Nazis.

At a press conference later, Marshall asserted that "amazingly" reasonable peace terms were proposed by high officials of Nazi Germany to an emissary of President Roosevelt late in September, 1939, shortly after the outbreak of the European war.

Marshall declared that W. R. Davis, a wealthy independent oil operator and contributor to President Roosevelt's campaign funds, went to Europe on a Pan-American Clipper plane with the approval of President Roosevelt to ascertain whether a reasonable negotiated peace was possible.

Marshall intimated that representatives of the British government sought by all possible means to hamper Davis.

Nevertheless, Marshall said, Davis reached Germany and received from Herman Goering and other high Nazi officials their proposed peace terms. He said the Nazis offered to send a plenipotentiary to the White House if President Roosevelt would call a peace conference.

British Interference Charged.

Marshall said the document setting forth the Nazi peace terms was initialed by Goering and that Joachim Hertzlet, Goering's personal representative, was ordered to accompany Davis back to the United States and confirm the authenticity of the document for President Roosevelt. However, Marshall declared, British authorities stopped Hertzlet at Lisbon, Portugal.

When Davis returned, Marshall said, the White House told him that President Roosevelt did not wish to see him but that Adolph Berle, assistant secretary of state, would see him.

Shortly after Marshall's statement, the state department announced it had received no "feasible" peace proposal, adding that the government could conduct important international affairs only "thru duly authorized and official channels."

CBS Offers Marshall Time.

New York, Dec. 30 (AP). — The Columbia Broadcasting System today offered Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign War committee, time from 10:15 to 10:30 p. m. [Eastern standard time] Wednesday for a broadcast.

Marshall, editor of the Cedar Rapids [Ia.] Gazette, said in a radio talk over W-G-N in Chicago last night that he had been unable to get time on CBS to reply to Herbert Agar before President Roosevelt's Sunday night broadcast.

Agar, editor of the Louisville [Ky.] Courier-Journal and member of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, urged increased aid to Britain in a CBS talk Saturday night. CBS said Marshall telephoned that night for time, but that none was available.

HOFFMAN DEPLORES ROOSEVELT LINK TO FOES OF DEMOCRACY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Patriotic Americans will doubt the sincerity of President Roosevelt in his pleas for the "democracies" abroad if he continues to listen to avowed enemies of the democratic system of government, Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] told the house today.

Clare E. Hoffman.

Hoffman referred to the recent suggestion of Walter Reuther, official of the United Automobile Workers of America, C. I. O., that planes could be produced at inactive motor plants. Reuther, who is director of the General Motors division of the U. A. W. A., presented his plan personally to Mr. Roosevelt. He requested, Hoffman said, that the President take over that part of the motor industrial plant which, in his opinion, is not being used to full capacity.

The Michigan congressman noted that Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party, who has been sentenced to four years in prison for use of an illegally obtained passport, also stated that "we industrial unionists are going to take over the factories."

"Reuther's suggestion, if carried out, would accomplish the demand earlier made by Browder, the communist," Hoffman said.

"It should not be forgotten that Reuther and his brother, Victor, at one time made a trip to Russia where they studied subversive activities and revolutionary tactics."

Hoffman asked that President Roosevelt insure the right of defense workers to hold their jobs without joining unions. He said the U. A. W. A. was threatening a strike at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company in Milwaukee which has an order for $18,000,000 worth of turbine and shafting for the United States navy.

WHITE GROUP'S BOARD DODGES ISSUE HE RAISED

New York, Dec. 30 [Special].—The national policy board of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, an extreme war interventionist group, tonight denied that there has been any split over the more moderate stand taken last week by William Allen White, Kansas editor, who has been chairman and spokesman for the committee.

White had said that as far as he is concerned, "the Yanks aren't coming," and that he and the committee opposed repeal of the Johnson act, which forbids loans to defaulting nations, and of the neutrality act.

After a two hour session the board sidestepped the issue by issuing a brief statement indorsing President Roosevelt's radio address of last night.

The board reaffirmed the policy it officially agreed upon last Nov. 26, which was widely interpreted to leave the door wide open for indorsement of using United States ships to convoy supplies in "all out" aid to Great Britain. The board made no reference to the White statement, which Gen. Robert E. Wood of Chicago pointed out to be in sharp disagreement with the November policy statement. Gen. Wood is chairman of the America First committee, which seeks to keep the nation out of war.

COL. M'CORMICK HAILS AMERICA'S PEACE LESSON

Tells How We've Learned to Live in Harmony.

Americans have learned what has never been learned in Europe or Asia—to live in peace together—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, said last night in an address over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. The address was made on the Chicagoland Concert hour.

Discussing the topic, "Today's Americans," Col. McCormick described the diverse racial origin of American citizens and told how all the races of Europe have swarmed across the ocean to this nation.

"There are no wars on this continent, either between races or between nations," he said. "We have been able to do what no other country has ever been able to do. We have been able to create and operate a republican form of government . . . May it be the example from which the narrow, intolerant, domineering nations of Europe may draw inspiration that will save them from their recurring terrible wars."

TEXT OF ADDRESS

The following is the text of Col. McCormick's address:

"In this Christmas week can we find hope for our own future and the future of the world?

"Let us look at our history to find the answer.

"I used to think that the first settlement of Europeans in this country was made at Roanoke Island, and the first successful one at Jamestown, Va., in 1607. This, however, is not the fact. The first settlement was made at Caparra in Puerto Rico in 1508, nearly a hundred years earlier.

"The oldest of our racial strains, therefore, excluding the Indians, is Spanish; the English came second to Jamestown. Russians, familiar with forests, were brought to the settlement because the English were unacquainted with forest life. So our third strain was Russian. The Dutch came to New Amsterdam and the Swedes to New Sweden. Then, one peaceful day, Admiral Nichols arrived with a fleet and they became New York and New Jersey.

Persecutions Bring Frenchmen.

"The persecutions of Louis XIV. brought Frenchmen to our shores, among them the only aristocrats that ever settled here. Some nobles offered to emigrate to Massachusetts Bay colony if they could retain their privileges, but the sturdy New Englanders refused them.

"The Pennsylvania Dutch, who were not Dutch, but Germans, came when the army of Louis XIV. ravaged the Palatinate. Having called the Germans 'Pennsylvania Dutch,' it has been colloquial with us to refer to these Germans as 'Dutchmen' ever since.

"The next arrivals were the Scotch-Irish, rebelling from political and religious discrimination. Boston and New York would not receive them for reasons of religious prejudice, so they came to Charleston and Baltimore, but chiefly to Philadelphia. Penn welcomed them and settled them as a buffer between his peaceful Quakers and the Indians.

Become Irresistible Troops.

"Armed with rifles made by Pennsylvania Dutch, they learned Indian tactics and became the irresistible troops in the wars of the next hundred years.

"Their march to Boston, to Quebec, to Montreal, to Saratoga, where their charge was decisive both of the battle and the war, is a greater epic than the march of the ten thousand under Xenophon.

"I often wish our movies would extol the exploits of Americans.

"Highland Scotch, rendered homeless by the abolition of the clans, found land in North Carolina. In North Carolina also the Swiss founded the city of New Bern.

Polynesians Taken In, Too.

"French Canadians were found in the Northwest territory and in Louisiana. In California and Alaska there were Russians as well as Spanish. We took in Polynesians with Hawaii.

"Africans, brought in slavery, were emancipated nearly a century ago, and enjoy the rights of citizenship in most states. The most cheerful development of the times is the fading of the color line.

"The '40s saw the southern Irish and Germans coming to escape oppression at home. Jews, long oppressed in Europe, have found refuge and tolerance here.

"Portuguese sailed in the fishing fleets of New England; Norwegians, Danes, and Finns opened the forests from Maine to Oregon.

Races of Europe Swarm Here.

"Poles have followed in the footsteps of Pulaski; Lithuanians in those of Kosciusko; Italians, Belgians, Slovaks, Latvians, Ukrainians, Estonians, Magyars, all the races of Europe have swarmed across the ocean.

"I have seen settlements of Filipinos near New Orleans and on Nantucket Island. Chinese and Japanese crossed the Pacific, the former to work for wages, the latter to settle on the land. That immigration has long been stopped, but children of those immigrants are now citizens.

"Except insofar as old French and Spanish laws remain in the southwest, the principles of the English common law and of constitutional government, established by our forefathers, have been unanimously accepted by this whole citizenship of such diverse origin.

Tolerance for All.

"There is complete tolerance for each other's inherited customs and every one's religious belief; the only legal limitation being that the laws be recorded and the courts conducted in the English language.

"I think it is fortunate that the old world languages are not carried on as racial traditions, and, where learned, are learned as alien tongues.

"National origins may be traced by names that have not yet been simplified, but where we see them most conspicuously—on the rosters of our college football teams—there can be no suggestion of alienism. These sturdy young Americans bear the future of their country on their broad shoulders.

"Of course, reading some political speeches and listening to soapbox orators, you might doubt that we are all infinitely better off than were our forebears in the lands whose dust they shook from their feet. But when we look at conduct instead of listening to oratory, what do we find?

We Live in Peace Together.

"We find that we have learned what never has been learned in Europe or Asia—we have learned to live in peace together. There are no wars on this continent, either between races or between nations.

"We have been able to do what no other country has ever been able to do. We have been able to create and operate a republican form of government.

"Can it be questioned then that this new nation, this new people, is the hope of a world which otherwise must be despaired of? May it be the example from which the narrow, intolerant, domineering nations of Europe may draw inspiration that will save them from their recurring terrible wars.

"Yes, if we are true to ourselves, we may hope that government of the people, by the people, for the people, may continue in America and extend from us to the entire world."

THE CONCERT HOUR

Familiar music featuring Marion Claire, soprano, Henry Weber and the WGN orchestra and chorus was heard on the Concert hour.

Miss Claire, with the accompaniment by Michael Wilkomirski, concert master, and the orchestra and chorus, joined in the Viennese melody, "The Old Refrain." Miss Claire also sang the Mexican folk song, "Cielito Lindo," and with the chorus, the traditional New Year's hymn, "Ring Out, Wild Bells," and Johannes Brahms' tender "Cradle Song."

Orchestral numbers included works from Delibes, Strauss, and Wagner. As a finale Miss Claire, the chorus, and the orchestra joined in "The Witch's Waltz" and "Finale," from "Hansel and Gretel."

The program was directed by Lou Jackobson. John Wlegel was announcer.

DISCLOSE LOSS OF MAIL SENT TO BRITAIN FROM U. S.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Dec. 30 (AP).—A government announcement today said air mail dispatched from Bermuda for Britain on Nov. 23 and 30 had been lost at sea, as had steamer mail dispatched on Nov. 19, 26, and 27, and Dec. 1. The lost mail totaled 111 bags, including registered letters and parcels. At the same time, the British general postoffice announced in London that ordinary mail posted in the United States between Nov. 11 and 14 and Nov. 18 and Dec. 6 had been lost "thru enemy action."

Pan-American Airways in New York reported that none of the mail carried by its planes between the United States and Lisbon, Portugal, was missing and that it obtained receipts for all mail taken off at Bermuda by the British censors or delivered to Lisbon. This would narrow the loss of air mail to the route between Lisbon and England, which is traversed by British flying boats and land planes.

Perhaps significantly, the British announced on Dec. 18 that land plane flights to Lisbon had been resumed after suspension on Nov. 11 due to undisclosed "difficulties," and said the twice-weekly flying boat service never had been interrupted.

1940 JAP REPORT: 18,000 FIGHTS IN NORTHERN CHINA

PEKING, China, Dec. 30 (AP).—The Japanese command reported today that its forces in north China fought 18,000 engagements against 3,500,000 Chinese guerrillas and regulars in 1940, inflicted 600,000 casualties, and took 27,000 prisoners. The area involved covers all China north of the Yellow river to the Manchoukuo and Outer Mongolia frontiers. The Japanese said efforts to reorganize the Chinese communist army in northwest China were thwarted in the last four months by Japanese thrusts.

TELLS STORY OF BIGGEST LONDON FIRE SINCE 1666

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Among the millions going to work in London today there were few who were not forced to make their way afoot around charred and smouldering ruins. Some had to walk for miles.

Thousands reached their destination only to discover their factories, workshops, offices, or businesses were heaps of smoking, burned out wreckage as the result of the most devastating series of fires this city has known since the great fire of 1666.

The whole city area [the financial district, London's "Wall street"] was the target for the thousands of incendiary bombs dropped by German raiders Sunday night. The Germans deliberately tried to destroy the city area by fire, an official statement declared. The ministry of information said the assault gave the fire department and the auxiliary fire fighting services "the greatest test they ever are likely to have."

Scarcely a street in the city was unmarked by fire or damaged by high explosive bombs. Scores of landmarks in the business district stretching eastward to the Strand were damaged or destroyed. The total damage outdid anything experienced by London since the intense German raids started last September.

Rapid Outbreak of Fires

An hour after the first alarm at 6:15 p. m. the center of London seemed to be a flaming inferno and probably more fires were burning over a wider area in a shorter time than ever has been known in the annals of modern fire fighting.

At 7 p. m. the city was lighted by the flames to such an extent that one could see down the once blacked out streets for miles. From then until daybreak the flames could be seen in towns 50 miles away. In many places the fire fighting continued thruout today.

I was writing a story in The Tribune office in the Press Association building at 6:45 p. m. when I heard a rattling clatter as the incendiaries rained down, not only on the building but all around. Then the lights went out, accompanied by an explosion some distance away indicating that a bomb had broken the electric circuit. One incendiary penetrated the cover of the ventilating system which soon filled our building with its fumes.

Bomb Penetrates Roof.

One incendiary penetrated the glass roof of the art department of our solidly constructed and fireproof Press building. Before this fire could be put out all the inflammable contents of this section of the building were destroyed.

Within half an hour a new circuit was established with the electric plant, and the presses in our building resumed their operations. The candles which had provided the only illumination while the power was off were extinguished.

Running up to the roof I saw at least 10 small fires starting within a block of the building. On a rooftop 40 feet away an air raid warden attempted to subdue an incendiary bomb by throwing pails of water into a hole in the wooden roof from which smoke was emerging. He seemed to be successful when another plane dropped another "breadbasket" [container full of incendiary bombs] and a few minutes later the warden's building and another near by burst into flames.

Flashes in All Directions.

The brilliant white flashes of bombs were shooting up in all directions as far as the horizon, where the flashes resembled violent heat lightning. Literally hundreds of fires were burning fiercely, some to the east throwing up flames higher than St. Paul's dome. Across the river all the way along the Thames from Westminster to London bridge another series of fires raged.

On the rooftop one seemed to be on an island in a sea of fire. Several adjoining buildings were entirely gutted. The roof of the hostelry, Cheshire Cheese, famous as being Samuel Johnson's favorite eating place, was burned off, but today the dining room and bar continued to function.

Across the street one could see flames licking around the spire of what is regarded by many as Sir Christopher Wren's architectural masterpiece, the Church of Saint Bride's. Today only the spire was standing and London's tallest fire ladder was towering over Fleet street as the firemen were throwing water thru the belfry to extinguish the smouldering woodwork in the interior.

Clamber Over Débris.

One could walk today for hours clambering over heaps of bricks, stone work, iron girders, thru smoke filled streets without covering more than an infinitesimal portion of the area devastated.

Five-sixths of the circle surrounding St. Paul's cathedral was gutted. From there on a labyrinth of narrow streets and passageways extended in ruins down to Londonwall street and the West End, which was shut off by débris heaped in the streets.

In addition to St. Bride's, eight other famous city churches were damaged: St. Lawrence Jewry, St. Stephen's, St. Vedast's, St. Mary Aldermanbury, St. Andrew's by the Wardrobe, Tanne and St. Agnes', Christ Church at Greyfriar's, and St. Mary's. Four of these were built by Sir Christopher Wren in the 17th century.

Save Dr. Johnson's Book.

Memorial house, where Dr. Samuel Johnson compiled his "Dictionary of the English Language," was burned out, but the first edition of the dictionary was saved. Memorial house is in Gough square off Fleet street.

The five story Associated Press building, at the corner of Tudor and Dorset streets near the Thames, was reduced to a shell.

St. Paul's was said to have been miraculously saved and today, as the fire fighters were throwing water in the fire near by, a huge Christmas tree at the front entrance was alight with colored bulbs, contrasting with the surrounding chaos.

A few blocks away the general postoffice and Old Bailey court were seriously damaged. Farther east among the famous structures gutted was historic Guildhall.

Union Jack Still Waves.

Most of the Guildhall, scene of colorful ceremonies from time immemorial, was just a shell, but above its solid main entrance the Union Jack waved defiantly. Many treasured relics of the rights and liberties won by Britons down thru the centuries were burned with the building.

This section of the city suffered more than any other because of the narrow streets, wooden interiors, and the lack of water. Hours later the fire fighters dynamited buildings between the flames to keep the fires from spreading.

Today in the financial section no water or gas was available. The restaurants still intact were serving cold meals and drinks. The corner of Londonwall and Moorgate streets became an impromptu clearing house, as did many other places in the city, for typists, clerks, and other workers who were unable to reach their offices.

London's regular and auxiliary firemen were hailed as the "heroes of the raid." They bore the heaviest casualties along with the roof top watchers.

Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill visited the damaged city for two hours today.

GUATEMALA EXECUTES 12 FOUND GUILTY OF STIRRING REVOLT PLOT

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Dec. 30 (AP).—The government announced today that 12 persons were executed by firing squads on Saturday after having been convicted on charges of sedition and attempted rebellion.

Those executed were Reserve Colonel Pedro Montenegro, Dr. Julio Carillo, José Pelaez, six army sergeants, two corporals and a private.

The government statement said the men had planned a revolt at Fort Matamoros on Christmas eve. It added that the country was quiet and that President Jorge Ubico had received a statement of support from the army. The plot was said to have had no political ramifications.

NAPLES BOMBED BY BRITISH; HIT PORT FACILITIES

Attack Customs Houses and Harbor Jetties.

LONDON, Dec. 30 (AP).—The British air ministry's news service announced tonight that royal air force bombers attacked Naples last night.

Quoting the middle east air command, it said a two wave attack scored direct hits on customs houses and jetties and set a fire near a customs jetty, but that weather conditions were so poor the pilots could not judge the full effect of the blaze. All planes returned safely, it was announced.

[The Italian high command announced that British planes raiding Naples had killed seven persons and that propaganda leaflets as well as bombs had been dropped.]

Firefighters on Alert.

The full power of London's fire fighters and antiaircraft gunners was mobilized tonight to combat any renewal of last night's Nazi fire assault.

Bad weather, however, keep both the royal air force and German planes grounded.

There had been only one bombing plane in the daytime, attacking one place in East Anglia and another in Kent.

Royal air force bombers last night attacked "an objective" in Germany and also ports and airdromes in German occupied territory despite bad weather, an official announcement said today, admitting the loss of two planes.

Nazis Raid 2 Airports.

BERLIN, Dec. 30 (AP).—Two English airports were targets of a surprise attack by a single German bomber today, DNB, the official German news agency announced tonight. It said the bomber swept low and set affre two planes on the ground, damaged six others, and also damaged hangars and barracks.

The high command communique, reporting on events of Sunday, stated that "last night larger combat units again bomb-raided London," and informed Germans added that the Rolls Royce motor works at Crewe, 35 miles southeast of Liverpool, also was a target of the night attacks.

Some British planes were said to have struck at Germany and occupied territory during the night. The communique said two of these were shot down by antiaircraft guns.

The holdup man seemed friendly, however, and when Zweig told him he couldn't afford to lose the money because he was sending his son thru the University of Illinois and had other expenses, the holdup man expressed regret.

"Times are hard for me, too," the stickup man said, "or I wouldn't be doing this. Why don't you put an ad in the paper telling me your name and address, and if things pick up and I get the chance I'll send all or anyway part of it back to you."

Unless he is reclassified and granted deferment he will report for induction into the army for a year's service.

ERNEST WEARS NEW SHOES, AND THEY PINCH HIM

Ernest Evans, 18 years old, colored, of 1809 Lake street, recently was placed on probation after admitting that on four occasions he broke into a restaurant at 843 Randolph street and each time stole a pair of the owner's shoes and a box of candy and fried himself a mess of pork chops.

Friday the place was robbed again and the same things taken. This time an old pair of shoes was left and a brand new pair taken. Detectives James Hoey and Patrick Kennedy arrested Evans yesterday. He will be asked to explain the new shoes he's wearing to Judge Joseph Drucker.

DECLARES NIGHTS OF NAZI BOMBERS ARE NUMBERED

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 30 (AP).—The nights of Germany's bombers are numbered, Air Marshal Sir Hugh Dowding assured Canadians today on his arrival here from London en route to the United States.

A method of frustrating the night bombers has been found Dowding said, and the necessary equipment is being completed so rapidly that by spring the bombers "whole weight and sting will have been removed."

"I don't mean to say that night bombing will cease entirely," the former chief of Britain's fighter command said. "Bombers may come, but the casualties from heavy and concentrated attacks will compel them to desist from night bombing just as they were compelled to give up their policy of crashing thru in daylight in preparation for invasion."

Sees Bigger Menace to Ships.

He warned that "the end of night bombing may greatly increase the menace of air attacks at sea, for the bombers diverted from our cities may be expected to seek other targets."

Dowding is conferring here with C. G. Power, Canadian air minister, and other officials, but plans to depart Thursday or Friday for Washington, D. C., where he will discuss means of standardizing planes and other air equipment manufactured for Britain.

The air marshal emphasized that he was "not going to Washington to lay down the law," but to seek greater coördination of British air war needs with American production.

He said that "up-to-date knowledge of actual fighting conditions" would be placed at the disposal of American authorities.

Interested in U. S. Fighters.

Dowding said that thus far comparatively few American built aircraft have been used in the British fighter command, but expressed great interest in the latest American types which, he said, have the performance required of good fighters.

American planes are of great value to the coastal command, he said, and are in fact the best available for coastal patrol work.

He showed great interest in the new American Airacobra fighter and commended the Douglas dive bomber.

German dive bombers are good, too, he conceded, "but not pleasant things to be in if caught by a squadron of Spitfires."

HUNGARY CALLS TROOPS; MOVE TO CURB RUSSIA SEEN

Sofia Reports Nazis Mine Mouth of Danube.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 30 (AP).—With Germany pouring soldiers into Rumania, Hungary called more men to her army today in what some circles viewed as another phase of vast Nazi preparations for war or any other outbreak in the Balkans.

Reports from Sofia, Bulgaria, said German troops were deploying along the Russian border in the northern Dobruja section of Rumania near the disputed Danube river mouth, as well as opposite the Bulgarian shores of the ice filled Danube river near Giurgiu.

The Sofia reports also said the mouth of the Danube, control of which Russia has demanded, had been mined by the Germans, who supervise the river outlet thru their domination of Rumania.

Report New Russian Activity.

Thousands of Hungarian men of military age were handed mobilization cards last night and today. This move coincided with reports of fresh Russian military activity on highways running from Lwow [Lemberg] in Russian Poland, to the Slovak frontier. Total Hungarian mobilization is expected by Jan. 15.

The Hungarian call for troops was considered in Budapest political circles as a step in coöperation with the German military machine to protect the German Balkan flank in the event Russia showed an inclination to intervene in southeast Europe.

Reports from heavily censored Rumania gave further support to the view that the Nazis were preparing Balkan armies for double duty, which might include striking south against Greece and Turkey as well as protecting the flank against Russia. Bucharest was ordered to hold air raid warning drills two hours each morning.

Oil Shortage Reported.

Other reports said there was a serious oil shortage in Nazi-occupied Rumania, which is rich in petroleum fields.

Bulgarian dispatches declared German troops streaming into Rumania were concentrating principally in the oil district north and west of Bucharest. Reports of sabotage in Rumanian oil fields reached Sofia. Numerous fires have broken out there recently and Sofia reports said they had been attributed to disgruntled Rumanian army officers. The Germans were said to be gradually eliminating Rumanians from the oil fields.

Bulgaria Takes No Action.

While troops moved in other sections of the Balkanr, there was no sign of special military precautions in Bulgaria. However, it was reported additional reserves might be called up by mid-January, perhaps the year's entire conscript class.

King Boris III. of Bulgaria, who is reported to have told Adolf Hitler he would step from his throne rather than permit German troops to cross his country, is expected to make an important radio speech Wednesday. His address, observers said, might give Bulgaria a tip on his policy regarding the German troops on his border.

Await Orders, Bulgars Told.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 31, Tuesday (AP).—Theodosis Daskalov, Bulgarian war minister, in a new year statement to the nation today told every Bulgar to "stay on the job and await orders from the king."

"Nineteen forty-one will be a year of decision and conflict in which circumstances more than ever before will make it necessary for the people to prepare for sacrifices," he said.

Rumania Cuts Train Service.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 30 (AP).—The Rumanian railways tonight announced cancellation for an indefinite period of all trains except 3 expresses and 13 local trains. No official explanation was given. No tickets are being sold to Budapest, Hungary; Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, or Sofia, Bulgaria. All plane traffic was stopped.

Russia Told of "Friction."

MOSCOW, Dec. 30 (AP).—The Russian press reported Balkan friction today under the headline "Hungarian-Rumania Polemic," but there was no Russian comment on developments.

Newspapers published Tass [official Russian news agency] dispatches from Budapest and Bucharest describing disputes over northern Transylvania, the area transferred from Rumania to Hungary thru axis arbitration last August.

BUND SETTLES TAX SUIT; F. B. I. PROBE GOES ON

Suit by the county against the German-American bund in Chicago and its affiliated organization, the Teutonia Publishing company, for $380.55 in personal property taxes for 1938 was settled yesterday with the payment of $461.39 to cover taxes, penalties and interest. The case came up before Municipal Judge Oscar S. Caplan.

Neither Dr. Otto Willumeit, head of the Bund, nor a representative of the publishing company appeared. The payment was made by check sent to the state's attorney. Judge Caplan said the tax payment settled the matter so far as the court was concerned, and that no further action was contemplated. However, the federal bureau of investigation still is examining bund records seized by the police.

Mass Troops in the Balkans

Germany deployed soldiers along the Danube river mouth and opposite Bulgaria near Giurgiu yesterday, while Hungary called up conscripts and Russian military activity was noted from Lwow to the Slovak border. Sabotage in the Rumanian oil fields was also reported.

TRIBUNE WRITER TELLS OF TOUR THRU GERMANY

Finds Nazis Can Answer All Questions.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 16 Via Berlin, [Delayed]. — The trip thru Germany, which I have just finished, along with other foreign correspondents from Paris, was arranged by the German propaganda ministry and conducted under its guidance by genial and well informed young men.

Arrows locate Cologne and Wiener Neustadt.

In the escorts for our trip and their methods I found a good part of the tour's value. It is the value which psychologists and students of human nature assign to a man's view of himself, which may be out of focus with objective facts, but is a revelation to his aspirations and of the man's standard of conduct.

For instance, I was struck by the conscious attempts to take the curse off the word "propaganda," an attempt exercised in subtle and often effective ways. Its basis is a proposition known to experienced American correspondents in Europe—that the official story or presentation of a case is always worth knowing, even when far from being all the truth or a distortion of it.

Propaganda Scores Point.

In a matter where the facts are contested, like the effects from British bombing in Germany, our guides had an easy job of it. It was impossible that the scene could have been arranged by them on short notice so as to conceal the important facts. They could triumphantly compare the British communiques announcing wholesale damage and their own claims that damage had been negligible and that Germany's huge industrial plants were operating as if the British raids had not taken place.

After making all possible reservations, I must take the German view as substantially correct. Here is a case where "propaganda" scores a point.

Questions arise immediately as to why the British bombings are so ineffective. The answer seems to lie in the distance from which the British must operate, making it necessary for them to carry a heavy load of fuel and a light load of explosives.

There is something also in what a German flying commander told me—that precise bombing of military objectives cannot be effected at night, even with the use of parachute flares. This is quite aside from the effect of antiaircraft fire, which—as I heard at Cologne—is terrific in volume and results in driving bombers up to very high altitudes and making their aim uncertain. All British bombing in Germany now is done at night.

The British effort is explained then only as an effort to weaken morale and possibly to make night workers in factories feel uneasy.

Another question occurred to me. Admitted that the British claims are highly exaggerated, even fantastic, why should I not believe the reverse situation to be true—that German stories of the damage done in England are equally wide of the facts?

The answer was given by the flying commander already mentioned and I can only cite it for impartiality's sake.

"Our German claims of damage are issued only after the facts have been ascertained by scouting planes and by photographs," he said. "The British cannot and do not exercise any such procedure. They can only take the word of the flyers, who probably are quite fair in saying they have hit such and such objectives. Hence, the difference between the truth in our claims and the British," he said.

Flyers Best Propagandists.

At Wiener Neustadt, in former Austria, we visited a flying school. This visit was possibly not intended as "propaganda," yet I found it was far more impressive than the most obvious efforts to impress me. Germany's best "propagandists" are its flying men.

After noting the efficiency of the workshops and mechanical arrangements, we were shown classrooms where I was struck by the earnest, studious atmosphere prevailing, and by the enthusiasm of the cadets.

These boys of 16 to 20 years clearly had not been rigorously selected physically and mentally, but had shown their eagerness for the job, with all its hardships and dangers.

Here the commander pointed out a big advantage the Germans have at present in training pilots. The more advanced of the cadets were absent, having left at daybreak for a long flight into Poland, from which they would return only at dusk.

Told Pilots Plentiful.

Such "air space," the commander told me, must no longer be at the disposition of the British for training, bombardments having devasted their fields and schools, making continuous work very hazardous.

If the situation were reversed, he said, the Germans would be seriously crippled in their systematic education of pilots. British training, consequently, must be carried out in Canada or elsewhere, where the schools can have security, but where the pilots can get no familiarity with the special conditions under which they must operate in the war zone.

Is Germany's source of young pilots adequate to the needs? I asked. Without being given figures I was told that the reserves of trained men have barely been touched and that candidates for the flying school are so numerous they must take their turn on the waiting list.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT REPORTS AN INCREASE IN CURRENT FLU WAVE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—An increasing number of cases of respiratory diseases and influenza was reported by the war department today at army stations on the west coast and in southwest and central states.

The infections were described, however, as being of "mild character" and not important from the viewpoint of mortality.

The department said that the illnesses were considered at their height in Kentucky, Oklahoma, Iowa, and Colorado.

Kicked Off Runners and Fled, Greece Reports.

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 30 (AP).—Italian troops in Albania took to skis today to battle the counterinvading Greeks, but the Greek high command announced that the experiment collapsed when the Fascists kicked off their runners and scattered.

The scene of the action was not disclosed. However, it was one of a series of local engagements in which the Greeks said they took more than 1,000 prisoners, including an entire battalion and its officers, and added to their store of captured Italian guns and supplies.

King Praises Army.

With the Italians struggling afresh—and vainly, the Greeks said—to win back some of the Albanian soil they have lost, King George II. of Greece tonight praised the achievements of his army in driving the Italians out of Greece. He expressed confidence that the new year would bring further successes.

"Our struggle will be hard," he said in a message to the Greek people, "but our reserves of morale are inexhaustible because a people who are determined to face everything and who do not forget its great traditions have a feeling of honor and human dignity so deeply rooted it never gives away."

Dispatches from the front asserted the Greeks, after beating back newly arrived Italians, had "scored further local gains" north of Chimara in a thrust toward the port of Valona.

Heavy losses were claimed among fresh Italian forces in attempted counterdrives on the central sector north of Klisura.

Shell Defense Lines.

Appreciable gains despite stubborn Italian resistance in the Tepeleni-Klisura area were announced by a government spokesman. The remaining Italian "last stand" defense lines there were reported shelled heavily.

British bombers again raided Valona yesterday, an RAF communique said.

BOMB BASES IN LIBYA

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 30 (AP).—British bombers attacked bases in the Libyan desert west of Bardia and preparations were reported to be continuing "smoothly" tonight for an assault by land forces on the Italian held port which has been under a two week siege.

The British middle east air force command declared fires were started by raids last night on Tmimi, an Italian air base. Planes were attacked, the communique added, but the extent of the damage could not be observed. Gazala and Darna, the latter an important port about 150 miles west of Bardia, also were attacked from the air, it said.

Artillery duels continued between the Italian garrison at Bardia and British forces. The British said intensity of the shelling had increased, but had failed to hamper operations.

Italians Report Successes.

ROME, Dec. 30 (AP).—The Italian air force, closely coöperating with the Fascist army and navy, has inflicted "very important losses" on the Greeks in recent days, a Stefani, Italian news agency, correspondent reported tonight from the Greek front in Albania.

A long Greek column on the march was attacked for four hours north of Koritza by groups of chasers which machine gunned the troops, the correspondent reported.

Groups of bombers "machine gunned and hammered" zones around Vescopia, where Greek concentrations were seen, and a cross road between Pogradetz, held by the Greeks, and Leschnica.

Other groups poured "tons and tons of bombs of various calibers on Preveza, where the enemy has the most advanced naval base," the correspondent said.

2 BRITISH SHIPS FLASH SOS CALLS FROM ATLANTIC

One in Collision; Other 'Taking Water Fast.'

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—Two British freighters flashed S O S calls from the submarine zone of the North Atlantic today—one reporting a collision 600 miles off Scotland, the other radioing that it was "taking water fast."

The 6,402 ton City of Bedford, out of New York for England, radioed at 2:39 a. m. [Chicago time] that it had collided with an unidentified ship.

The 5,342 ton Bodnant sent this message picked up by Mackay radio at 7:53 a. m. [Chicago time]:

The Bodnant did not give the cause of its trouble. Its position was close to that of the City of Bedford, indicating that they were in the same convoy.

Cancels Raider Alarm.

The British freighter Nalgora, 6,579 tons, radioed at 8:53 a. m. that it was being trailed by a mysterious ship 200 miles east of the Azores, but later canceled the alarm, indicating that it had met a friendly vessel.

Shipping circles reported today that the 6,732 ton Norwegian freighter Talleyrand was missing in the Pacific and believed to be the victim of a German raider.

The 13 year old vessel was last reported in July. Advices from Shanghai said that more than 20 Norwegian ships have fallen victim to raiders.

Shipping officials also reported that the 5,811 ton Norwegian motorship freighter Touraine had been sunk in the Atlantic by a submarine.

Bombs Damage Freighter.

BERLIN, Dec. 30 (AP).—German bombers were reported today to have set a freighter afire east of Harwich, and damaged a British minelayer. The German high command said the freighter was in convoy.

Italians Make Claim.

ROME, Dec. 30 (AP).—An Italian submarine operating in the Atlantic was credited today by the Italian high command with shooting down a British bombing plane.

FINNS HEAR NAZIS BLOCKED RUSSIAN GRAB IN NORWAY

Told Reds Planned to Take Northern Port.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland [By Mail].—Germany's continued reënforcement of her large garrison at Kirkenese, Norway's most northern harbor, has been carried out to forestall a Russian movement of troops across northern Finland to the Norwegian seaport, according to informed diplomatic circles.

At the suggestion of Sir Stafford Cripps, British ambassador to Moscow, who had been trying to persuade Russia to join in the war, the soviets were seriously considering moving part of their army to Kirkenese, these sources declare. When the pact between Germany, Italy, and Japan was announced and Germany sent 5,000 troops to reënforce the Kirkenese garrison, Russia abandoned the idea of seizing Kirkenese and thus obtaining a long desired outlet on the Atlantic.

The rigid censorship in Finland has kept this contemplated violation of Finnish territory from her people, who have been forced to comply with a steady stream of demands by Russia since the signing of the peace treaty in Moscow last March.

Railroad Equipment Yielded.

One soviet demand involved the delivery of all rolling stock functioning on railroad lines taken over by Russia. The Finns complied, sending locomotives, cars and other material, some of which had been damaged by bombs and machinegun fire. Russia returned the damaged equipment with a demand that it be repaired. Another demand required the turning over of all evacuated factory equipment, and one large coöperative in Karelia was forced to give up its trucks and other vehicles.

In the last two months Finland has lived thru two serious moments when it seemed she would have to fight Russia again. Finland was prepared to fight and even called a partial mobilization. Behind the scenes Germany had applied pressure on Moscow. Thru the same channel Finland had been able to keep Petsamo, her Arctic port, at the signing of the Finnish-Russian treaty. Germany has now told Finland to submit to soviet demands and be patient.

Finland Grows Stronger.

Finland is now better prepared to fight than she was last December, and the transfer of German troops thru northern Finland to Norway has further bolstered the Finns. Germany will never permit Russia to obtain an outlet on the Atlantic, Germans say, and the Finns are pinning their faith on this declaration.

It is declared here that the non-aggression pact between Germany and Russia will not live long. The Germans are confident they can crush Russia when they get ready, and that Germany will eventually liquidate Russia is believed not only by the Germans but by the Swedes and Finns.

Start Over

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hicks are reconciled, but with fingers crossed.

A code of conduct was presented in court yesterday by Bert Hicks, a salesman, and his wife, Harriet, 5830 North Hermitage avenue, as they agreed to drop her divorce suit. Hicks is 20 years old, and his wife is 19. They have a child, Dolores, 2.

Appearing before Judge Rudolph Desort, the young couple announced that they had agreed to start over again. Mrs. Hicks handed over two typewritten copies of the code which they had drawn up and signed.

The principal rules were [1] Hicks agrees to attend church voluntarily for one year; [2] neither Hicks nor Mrs. Hicks shall run to his or her parents to settle future domestic problems, and [3] his lawyer, Allen Freeman, shall act as arbiter in any eventual disputes. Judge Desort dismissed the divorce suit, which had charged cruelty, and said he thought the code of conduct a good foundation stone for future happiness.

A CAREER THIEF HEARS AN OLD STORY: 10 YEARS

Mail Box Looter Gets Two Prison Sentences.

It was an old story for William F. Newman when he appeared yesterday before Judge Charles E. Woodward in federal court on a charge of stealing from the mails. For Newman, now 50 and grayhaired, has spent most of the last 19 years in the country's leading penitentiaries on the same charge.

Newman was first convicted in 1921 for mail theft and was sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas. Since then his penchant for stealing from mail boxes has landed him in five different penitentiaries, some more than once. He was last freed from prison on July 13, 1938, when he was given a conditional release from Leavenworth.

Resumes "Trade" in City.

He came to Chicago and immediately returned to his old profession, according to his confession to Robert Eardley, assistant United States district attorney. Newman's activities were uninterrupted until his arrest Nov. 18 when his actions attracted the suspicion of two policemen as he was leaving an apartment building at Albion and Newgard avenues.

Newman protested he had been buying old clothes, but police found two stolen letters in his pocket. When confronted with his record Newman confessed the thefts. He explained he had been busy looting apartment building mail boxes in Chicago, Evanston, and Oak Park since his release from prison. He estimated his loot at $2,000 during that period.

"You certainly have a long and should we say respectable career in our prisons," Judge Woodward commented after Newman had pleaded guilty to two charges of mail theft.

Learns What Consecutive Means.

"I am going to sentence you to five years in prison on each of the charges and I won't confuse you by telling you they will be consecutive terms. It will mean that when one term ends the other will start."

In another case Judge William H. Holly sentenced Garvey Brodkin, 31, an ex-convict, to five years in prison for stealing from the mailbox of a church at Barry and Kenmore avenues.

EXPLORER TELLS OF GREENLAND'S DEFENSE VALUE

Describes Where Bases Could Be Built.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 30 [Special].—National defense, from the standpoint of geography and airplane attack and in the broader sense of building social and individual discipline to meet the psychological as well as the physical threat of hostile nations, formed discussion subjects today at the sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Prof. W. H. Hobbs.

Greenland as an American outpost was discussed by Prof. William H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan in the geology section. He was a leader for several years of the university's expedition to that island. He said that southern Greenland is only 1,200 miles from northern Maine and 500 from Labrador.

"From our new naval and air base in Newfoundland," he said, "Greenland is barely a thousand miles distant, thus well within the radius of action of modern bombing planes and almost within that of pursuit planes."

In American Defense Zone.

The occupation and subjugation of Denmark, he said, had brought Greenland as a former Danish colony into the defense zone of the western hemisphere under the terms of the act of Havana.

"As an outpost of this country," he declared, "Greenland offers difficulties as well as advantages, due to its almost unique physical character. In the possession of an enemy power it would offer a serious menace to our security."

Greenland stretches thru 23 degrees of latitude, or about 1,600 miles, and has an extreme width of 800 miles. Most of the vast interior region has a surface of ice and snow which is virtually flat, the professor said.

This is sometimes two miles above sea level, with minor irregularities not large enough to interfere seriously with the landing or taking off of airplanes. Such actual operation of planes has been demonstrated on similar surfaces of the Antarctic. Outside the central area is a marginal zone of from 30 to 50 miles of crevassed ice and outcroppings wholly unsuited to airplanes. Behind the coastal mountains are smoother belts.

Serve as Listening Posts.

Greenland's value as an outpost, Prof. Hobbs declared, lies mainly in the possibility of establishing bases on its borders for aircraft and submarines to serve as listening posts to prevent occupation by an enemy and to be available to attack enemy shipping along the main sea route from America to Europe, which is only about 100 miles distant from the southern tip of Greenland. A submarine base could be established, he said, in one of the fjords in southern Greenland.

Prof. Hobbs said that on the east coast there is only one landing field, at Scoresby sound. A landing field back from the Labrador coast, a station in southwest Greenland, the east Greenland station in Jamieson land, on Scoresby sound, and the established landing field in Reykjavik, Iceland, together supply a practical route, Hobbs said, for bomber planes between the United States and Britain. Along this route no flight need be more than 900 miles.

Science Versus Life.

Dr. Anton J. Carlson, physiologist of the University of Chicago, gave the annual lecture before the Sigma Xi society on science versus life. He stated his conclusions after 50 years' study as follows:

"As I see it, ours is not an age of science. Men are still driven by greed and confused by guile, rather than guided by reason based on our expanding knowledge. Science has greatly enlarged man's understanding, conquered many of his diseases, lengthened his life, multiplied his joys, decreased his fears, and added much to his physical comforts and powers. But man may use these and other achievements for a greater social injury, instead of for a further social advance.

"Science is specifically human in that it stems from the innate curiosity of all men and the conspicuously plastic brains of the ablest, if not the noblest, of our fellows. If this be so, it follows that the scientific method and its products cannot be in any fundamental and permanent sense in conflict with human nature, tho our present human society, product of a past dominated by greed, force and fear, may be and is in conflict with the scientific method."

President Ezra Day of Cornell college gave the annual Phi Kappi Phi lecture, speaking on the discipline of free men.

FOUR SUSPECTS HELD AS HIGHWAY ROBBERY GANG

County highway police in Homewood last night announced they had broken up a gang of hoodlums which has been robbing and beating motorists on Lincoln highway between Western and Torrence avenues in recent weeks.

Those held, all from Chicago Heights, are Joseph Rossi, 21 years old, 28 East 23d street; Emil Sebastiani, 26, of 227 East 21st street, Alex De Sandre, 22, of 253 East 25th street, and George Florenzo, 23, of 192 West 25th place. Police said they admitted several auto stickups and the robbery of a Joliet dairy.

Lieut. Fred Mulhausen of the Homewood station said three members of the gang were robbing a motorist Friday night at Western avenue and Sauk trail when a second motorist reported them. Sergt. Anthony Urban and Deputy Thomas De Chene, notified by radio, chased the bandit car until it was abandoned in a prairie near Chicago Heights, then traced the license to Rossi. Rossi, meanwhile, had reported the car stolen. The others were arrested thru Rossi.

APPEALS COURT VOIDS ALIMONY CUT OF SPENDER

The Appellate court ruled yesterday that a husband is not entitled to a reduction in alimony payments to his wife when he apparently has substantial means and spends money on another woman.

The case was that of Adrian L. Hoover, a lawyer, and Mrs. Anna Mae Hoover, 7110 Clyde avenue, who obtained a separate maintenance decree in 1927 and $200 a month alimony. Another woman, Maye T. Hanley, was named as co-respondent. Judge Rudolph Desort cut the alimony to $100 several months ago on Hoover's plea of impoverished finances.

In its opinion, written by Judge Hugo M. Friend, the Appellate court ordered the alimony restored to $200. It pointed out that Hoover had $57,000 in cash and other assets early in 1940; that he had maintained an apartment for Miss Hanley for eight years; that he had purchased, in her name, a $13,000 summer home, and that he had been to Florida with her last winter, while Mrs. Hoover and their daughter "had been living in a three room kitchenette."

PROBE OF McLANE TACTICS ASKED IN UNION VOTE DRIVE

Bartenders Harassed, Court Is Told.

State's Attorney Courtney's office was asked yesterday to investigate tactics of campaigners for the re-election of George B. McLane as business agent of local 278 of the bartenders' union. Attorney Raymond F. Hayes, counsel for a group of candidates of the anti-McLane faction, reported that his clients had been harassed over the week-end by McLane and others.

Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne is expected to rule today on several motions pertaining to the coming election which he ordered held Jan. 6 in his courtroom. Judge Dunne appointed a receiver for the union last August on petition of McLane, who said then that Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and other gangsters were running the union.

Charges Secret Deal.

In court before Judge Dunne yesterday Hayes called McLane a betrayer and said McLane had entered into a secret deal with the Nitti gang. He cited the alliance between James Crowley, candidate for the presidency of the union, and McLane.

"In this law suit McLane is the plaintiff," Hayes told the court, "and Crowley is one of the defendants. The plaintiff and the defendant are now running together on a slate of candidates."

Attorney A. C. Lewis, who represents McLane, said there was nothing secret about the deal between McLane and Crowley.

It was after Attorney Harold Levy, who represents Crowley and was attorney for the union until the receiver dropped him from its pay roll several months ago, addressed the court that Attorney Hayes made his complaint.

Levy admitted that nearly all the 51 bartenders who signed a court petition on which Attorney Hayes came into the case as an intervenor had been "contacted" over Saturday night and Sunday.

Protests Rival's Methods.

"Canon 9 of the ethics of the American Bar association makes it unethical for a lawyer to contact the clients of opposing council in a law suit," Hayes stated.

Attorney Levy said there was no occasion to talk about the ethics of the lawyers, and Judge Dunne said the legal profession could take care of itself. Hayes then conferred with Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford.

Judge Dunne's ruling today is expected to settle the question of a possible postponement of the election. If he decides to permit names to be written on the union ballots the anti-McLane faction will wage a "write-in campaign" for Richard Nugent for business agent, it was announced.

ENTIRE SLATE IS RE-ELECTED BY TEAMSTERS

All officers of local 705 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs were reëlected, results of the election held Sunday showed yesterday. The incumbents held a 2 to 1 lead over a slate of rank and file candidates who sought to defeat the present officials.

Reëlected officers are: Fred Tiedt, president; H. E. Wood, secretary and treasurer; George McCarthy, vice president; Michael Ronan, recording secretary; Tony Cerone, Al Taphorn, and Verne Campbell, trustees, and John Russo and Frank Kratky, business agents.

JOB SEEKERS RUN UNION GAUNTLET AT CAMP GRANT

Fees from $2.50 to $100 Demanded by Agents.

BY WILLIAM THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 30.—The unemployed man who comes here hoping that Uncle Sam will put him to work getting Camp Grant ready for the draftees discovers quickly that the government has little to do with his employment.

This, he learns, is in the hands of a group of union leaders in a modernistic cement and glass brick labor temple. And their interest in getting him a job, he is informed, depends on whether he can pay the initiation fee that will entitle him to a union membership card.

If the job seeker be so unfortunate as to apply first at the camp, he will find he must pay a 25 cent bus fare to get from the military reservation to the union headquarters in Rockford or else he must walk the five and one-half miles. It's a pleasant walk, along the picturesque Rock river but an applicant may be forgiven for grumbling about the failure to post notices directing him to the proper place to ask for a job.

It's Simple; Just $100.

Inside, the labor temple officials tell the job hunter that he'll be the first one put to work as a carpenter or a painter once he has given them the $100 initiation fee required by each of those unions. If he wants to be a common laborer they'll get him some action for $50.

The pay scale for carpenters and painters is $1.25 an hour. Laborers get 75 cents an hour.

Only the more naïve, however, are bluffed completely by the unions in this city. Every man on the street knows that great batteries of floodlights are being installed at Camp Grant to make ready for all-night shifts of workers and that the pay roll of 5,300 men is being increased by one-half.

Every one knows that only 120 buildings are under way, yet 365 are on order. Every one knows, too, that there is an immediate demand for a new bridge to carry construction trafic over the river, and that this alone is a $200,000 job.

Building Deadline Set.

Most important of all, it is known that a new quartermaster, Maj. Howard Graham, recently was sent here for the express purpose of meeting building deadlines. The camp's reception and hospital buildings are supposed to be completed Jan. 15.

It is possible, then, for the unemployed man, once he asserts himself, to come away from the union temple with several propositions:

If he kicks up a fuss, he is told he will be "second choice" for a job provided he pays half of the initiation fee and one month's dues to the union concerned. This means $50 on a carpenter's or painter's card, or $25 on a laborer's card.

If he continues to bear down, he is told he might possibly get a job as a carpenter or painter if he buys a work permit for $10.50. He is warned, however, that this will be regarded only as a down payment on the $100 initiation fee. The full amount must be paid within 30 days.

A $2.50 Laborer Deal.

If he is interested only in a laboring job, and is even more assertive, he is told he eventually may get work with a down payment of $2.50. This would apply on the $50 initiation fee. But instead of having to pay up in 30 days, he may string out the payments over several months at $2 a week. He is warned, however, that as other men gain full union status he may be pulled off the job to make room for them.

War veterans are given preference in all cases.

As one climbs to the union offices on the second and third floors of the labor temple, he sees four lines of men strung out thru the corridors and on the stairs. The longest line, averaging 100 men 8 hours a day, leads to an office marked "Registrations."

Here the job seeker must give such facts as name, address, age, type of work wanted, and social security number. If he has no social security number, he is told to go to the local postoffice and get one. This is a 10 block walk each way.

Applicants satisfactory to the registrar are divided into three groups. One group lines up at the office of local 607 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Paper Hangers, and Decorators of America. Another heads into the headquarters of local 792 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. A third crowds the three room suite of local 32 of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers of America.

Every few minutes a union official steps out of one of the three offices and inquires, by shouting, if there are any men with paidup cards in line. If so, they are ushered into an inner office. They emerge in a few minutes with jobs.

Union Card Does the Trick.

One man, with a carpenters' union card in his hand, entered the building during the course of one of these calls. He left in 10 minutes with instructions to be on hand for work the following day.

Those who have only enough money for a work permit are kept waiting in line several hours a day. Many get discouraged, or perhaps hungry, and leave for their homes after having spent half a day in line. They always come back, however, if they have any money. Only those without any cash, or without the prospect of getting any, leave and fail to return.

DRAFTEE QUOTAS ANNOUNCED FOR 7 CHICAGO BOARDS

Cook county draft headquarters yesterday announced the quotas of men which seven more local boards of Chicago will be called on to provide for induction into the army between Friday and Jan. 8. These boards, which must provide a total of 124 men, were called on at this late date because most of the registrants of seven boards originally scheduled to provide draftees at that time are colored, and the quotas for those boards were canceled.

The cancellation was ordered because the army will have inadequate facilities to induct more Negroes until February.

Forty-three Chicago local boards, including these designated yesterday, will provide approximately 700 draftees in the period Jan. 3 to 8.

The boards designated yesterday to take the place of the quotas for the colored areas are: No. 44, 18 men; No. 45, 19 men; No. 57, 19 men, all to report Friday at the Chicago induction station, 234 East Chicago avenue; and board No. 50, 19 men; No. 54, 16 men; and No. 65, 16 men, who report Jan. 6, 7, and 8, respectively.

The Army Alters Warren's Plans for New Year's Eve

Private Warren Oliver, 19 years old, assigned to Fort Knox, Ky., was arrested by South Chicago police yesterday for the army authorities for overstaying a leave of absence. He told the police he was five days overdue on a 10 day pass, but wanted to celebrate New Year's eve in Chicago. "I suppose that I'll get 15 days in the guardhouse for this, but it was worth the try," he said

TRIBUNE TO GIVE MEDILL SCHOOL $125,000 MORE

N. U. Journalism Branch Assured Till 1951.

A gift of $125,000 from the Tribune company to the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern university was announced yesterday by Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of the university.

The gift, to be paid over a period of 10 years at the rate of $12,500 a year, brings to $375,000 the amount the Tribune company has contributed to the support of the journalism school since 1921.

School Established in 1921.

In 1921 THE TRIBUNE, aware of the need of training men and women of the middle west in the fundamentals of journalism, offered Northwestern university $12,500 a year for five years toward the operation of such a school. The university accepted and named the school in honor of Joseph Medill, founder of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

So successful was the school that in 1926 the agreement was renewed for another five years, and in 1931 for 10 years. Yesterday's gift will insure continuation of the school until Jan. 1, 1951.

"We have appreciated the support THE TRIBUNE has given us in the past and are more than grateful for this continuation of it," said President Snyder in his announcement.

Five Year Course Offered.

When the school first was opened in 1921, it offered eight courses and a four year course of study. It now offers 46 courses and has a five year course of study leading to the degree of master of science in journalism. The five year course was instituted in 1938 when the school was reorganized to make it the first institution of its kind placed on a professional basis similar to schools of law and medicine.

Since 1921 it has graduated more than 600 students and now has an enrollment of 361, of whom 111 are full time students on the Evanston campus and 250 part time students on the downtown Chicago campus. It has a faculty of 17, headed by Dean Kenneth E. Olson and Dr. Charles L. Allen, assistant to the dean.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO GET MILK AT 1c PER HALF PINT

Milk will be furnished 100,000 children at a cost of 1 cent a half pint in 119 elementary schools in Chicago's low income areas under a plan approved yesterday by the Surplus Marketing administration in Washington, D. C.

Milk handlers will submit bids for supplying the milk on Monday, said L. J. Steck, agricultural economist of the marketing administration. If bids are accepted the program will get under way Jan. 20 and operate until the close of school next June.

The board of education will pay 1 cent a half pint for the milk and the Surplus Marketing administration the rest. Pupils will pay only 1 cent a half pint, however.

Milk is now sold at the schools at 4 or 5 cents a half pint, F. O. Washam, director of the board of education's lunchroom program, said.

Court Holds Bank Directors Liable for Note of $245,811

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday ordered 10 former directors of the Madison Square State bank to make good a promissory note for $245,811 which they signed in 1930.

The decision was made on an appeal by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, government lending agency. It received the note as part of the collateral on which the 90 million dollar "Dawes loan" was made in 1932 before the financial crisis which led to the national banking holiday.

The decision in the case, longest in the history of the Appellate court, where it had been pending under advisement since Nov. 5, 1936, will be appealed to the Illinois Supreme court, counsel for the directors said.

Loan Made to Bolster Bank.

The transaction on which the decision was based involved a $210,000 loan made to bolster the bank's financial position during a period of extended withdrawals. The bank, at 4812 Madison street, was unable to meet its obligations, notwithstanding the loan, and closed in June, 1932.

The directors sought to avoid payment of the note on the contention that the transaction involved a violation of state laws prohibiting branch banking.

Their contention was upheld in the Cook county Circuit court in 1936. Judge John T. Cummings of Kewanee, then sitting here, directed a jury verdict freeing the directors of liability on the note.

Transactions Cited in Plea.

The plea of violation of state laws was based on a series of transactions by which the bank became an affiliate of the National Republic Bancorporation, organized to hold blocks of stocks in several banks.

The RFC began pressing for payment of the note when the obligation came into its possession after its 90 million dollar loan to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, once headed by Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

The defendants claimed they were not obligated to pay the note because George Woodruff, then head of the Bancorporation, had promised them repayment never would be required. According to the defense, Woodruff promised to repurchase the Madison Square bank building, which figured in the promissory note, from the directors.

Defense "Promise" Barred.

The Appellate court decision stated the directors could not use this "alleged promise" as a defense. The opinion, written by Justice Kickham Scanlan and concurred in by Justices Hugo M. Friend and John J. Sullivan, said in part:

"The defendants knew, or should have known, that the alleged promises of Woodruff were, as to the bank, void, and could not absolve them from payment of the note. The note is a valid instrument upon its face and its validity is not changed by the void promises of Woodruff."

THREE CHARGED WITH TORTURING WOMAN BY FIRE

Edwardsville, Ill., Dec. 30 [Special].—Accused of having tortured a 60 year old woman by burning her fingers with matches to force her to give up $625, two former convicts and a police character are in Madison county jail charged with robbery, extortion, and assault to commit murder.

According to Sheriff Walter R. Wittman, Eddie Digby, 27, and Benton Tucker, 27, both of East St. Louis, Ill., and Albert Lambert, 28, St. Louis, Mo., have confessed they went to the home of Mrs. Lucille Falletti in Collinsville, Ill., at noon Christmas day and forced her to surrender $625 in postal savings stamps. They denied the torture by fire and beating, altho Mrs. Falletti still bears marks to support her charges.

Warrants for the three were obtained today by State's Attorney C. W. Burton, who will take their cases before the January grand jury.

Two Stench Bombs Cause $1,000 Damage at Market

Two stench bombs caused $1,000 damage yesterday when they were thrown into Jack's Quality Market, 437 South Kedzie avenue. One exploded and spoiled large quantities of holiday poultry. Two big windows were broken. Jack Callendo, 3138 Congress street, the owner, told Warren avenue police that he and his two sons run the shop alone and he has had no union trouble.

COAST ARTILLERY SCHOOL TRAINING FOR AIR DEFENSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 [Special].—Making the nation's antiaircraft defenses more efficient is a job of the coast artillery school at Fort Monroe, Va., guardian of the gateway to the capital.

Giant searchlights of 800,000,000 candle power pick out a theoretical enemy and antiaircraft batteries roar into action as a part of the training at the school, established as a primary source of instruction in matters pertaining to the coast artillery.

About 200 officers from the National Guard, officers reserve corps, and marine corps, and 300 enlisted specialists from the regular army and draftees are now attending school. As soon as one group completes 12 weeks' instruction, another enters. Early next year a peak of 565 enlisted men and 500 officers is expected at the school, and new barracks and mess halls are under construction.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S PEACE.

Mr. Roosevelt has rejected all idea of a peace now. He had been asked to inquire of the combatants if there were any terms upon which they could agree. He says that would be nonsense. He says one cannot make terms with outlaws, with aggressors who seek to conquer the world and rule it. Before peace can be discussed the Nazis must be overthrown and for this purpose the United States must become the arsenal of the democracies.

The overthrow of the Nazis is the announced war aim of the British government. It is an exacting undertaking. It taxes the imagination. It must contemplate a prolonged war of two, three, four, or five years. The war must be carried to Germany, now in possession of most of a continent. The subjugated peoples must suffer. They must suffer from what their new masters do to them and from what the British try to do to their enemy. Mr. Roosevelt makes that policy his own. The British government comes to a decision. Mr. Roosevelt follows it.

He has given the American people a very gloomy prospect for 1941 and for succeeding years. He has made it apparent that unless the people can regain control of their government they will have no assurance from month to month that they will not be up to the hilt in one of the most desperate wars of history. Mr. Roosevelt has adopted the Dorothy Thompson thesis for his own. That is a thesis which makes the United States an old fashioned wife who, having no influence whatsoever upon her husband, follows him devotedly thru every vicissitude that his recklessness leads both into.

Britain is the masculine element in this wedding of countries and an old fashioned Briton at that. The head of the house makes the decisions and the subordinate helpmate follows. The United States had nothing to do with the diplomatic failures and the military errors which brought Great Britain to its present difficult position. The decision at Munich was made by Mr. Chamberlain. The decision in the spring of '39 which pledged aid to Poland was made by Mr. Chamberlain. Step by step, the decisions regarding Hitler were made in London and Paris and each, apparently, bound the United States to a course of conduct altho the United States had no voice whatever in the various determinations.

The American government followed the line the British and French statesmen took, wherever it led, and now Mr. Roosevelt accepts all the consequences of that. And he speaks with great contempt of Americans who would have pursued a different policy. There are many of us who would have assumed an independent national attitude. The policy of these Americans would have been to make the United States, as it could be made, the strongest country in the world, and either remain aloof from quarrels we could avoid or if we entered them have our say as to the decisions.

If our aid is invaluable, we should have the right to say yes or no before we undertake to supply it. Our wars should not be made for us by the governments of other allied powers but should be made by our own decisions. The Dorothy Thompson-Roosevelt housewife idea is that we follow the head of the house wherever he goes.

To obtain Mr. Roosevelt's peace an army superior in man power and equipment to Germany's great force must be raised. It must invade the continent and it must defeat the power which has overrun all of Europe from the Russian frontier westward. Possibly this can be done. If it fails the peace will be much worse than the one Mr. Roosevelt rejects as impossible. It may be impossible. We do not know because we have not tried to find out. With all the risks we are taking in war we have not tried to make peace. Mr. Roosevelt's speech may have closed the door. It may have been intended to do that.

ANYWAY IT WAS A GREAT SEASON.

The Tribune's music critic found that Yale had been underestimated. Its glee club visiting here for a holiday sing sang better than the Harvard club but didn't have as good songs. The praise didn't help some of the local Yales a bit. Their football team played a better game than Harvard part of the recent game but again it did not have as good a score. The old grad can't find a compensation in heavenly voices. He can't make up on the peanutta what he loses on the damma banan.

Past glories are difficult things. They make the present day unhappy. The change of things couldn't be helped. Football became a highly organized business when it was discovered that an institution of higher learning was rated according to its gridiron record. An alumnus of Alabama who devoted many years to building up the scholastic reputation of his university recently exposed the whole workings of the system. He's probably having his meals brought to him in a swamp by now. Alabama ran a high school as a farm for its team. The alumni did not wait for promising high school players to develop in other parts of the country. They got them younger than that and put them under Alabama coaches.

The conscience stricken alumnus says he's thru. He's seen his last football game. He didn't care so much about what happened to the game as about what happened to the players. Thru high school and college they majored in football and what came of their education was football. They were in luck if they could read and write and if they could get a job on WPA. Even in the south where football has succeeded cotton as king Alabama may be an extreme case, but an extraordinary football team is seldom the product of ordinary matriculation, altho in many of the conferences there are good rules and good regulations. Scholarship hasn't everywhere suffered as the Alabama graduate says it did in his school. But the old eastern bosses of the game are up against too much competition. They'll have their good teams and their good years. That's about as much as they can expect.

We put the game away for the winter tomorrow in the various bowls. And it's been a good season. Everybody's had something to talk about except Chicago and even Chicago could talk about Clark Shaughnessy. Be seeing you at the radio tomorrow afternoon.

THE COMMUNITY FUND.

Mr. George Ranney's letter today in the Voice of the People brings the news that Chicago has for another year met a draft on its civic conscience by subscribing in full the $3,604,000 set as the goal in the Community Fund campaign.

The necessity for the fund is best illustrated by the fact that the organizations sharing in the contributions, directly and indirectly, number more than a hundred. Their number is an index of the variety of social needs to be met in a modern metropolis.

Hardly a one of the contributors to the fund, it is safe to hazard, could name all the organizations that share his contribution. Some, perhaps, are engaged in activities in which he has no great interest. He has the assurance, however, when their appeal comes jointly thru the Community Fund, that all are honestly administered and engaged in work that meets minimum standards of usefulness.

A number of these organizations performing valuable tasks would find it difficult, because of their size and lack of publicity facilities, to keep afloat without the aid of the fund. By giving all recognized welfare agencies an opportunity to make a joint appeal, the Community Fund establishes itself as one of the great inventions of modern giving.

AIR INVASION OF ENGLAND.

The vast majority of people in this country wish Adolf Hitler no good, but have been perhaps overhopeful that he would attempt an invasion of England. Their expectation has been, of course, that if he were foolhardy enough to make the attempt the foregone conclusion would be a slaughter of the invading army by the British fleet and ground forces.

Wayne Thomis' speculative appraisal of the possibility of an aerial invasion of the British island should give some of these optimists pause. While such an invasion would be tremendously hazardous, the experts whom Mr. Thomis consulted make plain that, if favored by the luck that has attended some of their other hazards, the Nazis might land from the air an army, not of thousands, but of hundreds of thousands. Such a force would be most formidable.

Hitler is a gambler, but he does not gamble without calculating odds. It may be safely assumed that if he attempts an invasion it will be on such a scale that it can be repelled only by an all-out effort by British forces.

It goes without saying that Prime Minister Churchill and his government have taken every precaution within their means to protect Britain. Nevertheless, the prospective sacrifice of British lives in the event of invasion is such that no friend of that nation should wish that she be subjected to the ordeal.

AN AMERICAN BALLET.

Readers who look to this page for their intelligence regarding the arts will be pleased to learn that the Monte Carlo ballet is becoming acclimated to America. That may be listed as one of the few compensations for the war. An organization which used to tour the world and had its headquarters on the continent is now obliged to spend most of its time in America. It is learning our ways. It is beginning to understand our jokes.

Only a few years ago the same organization put on a pretentious piece entitled "Union Pacific," which was feeble because it was false. The subject was the construction of the first transcontinental railway, one of the great epics of our history, but the treatment was frivolous when it was not silly. Only by grace of the fact that the American public is almost wholly unacquainted with American history did "Union Pacific" have any success. It should have been hooted into oblivion.

In its present engagement the ballet is showing "The New Yorker," which is something quite different. With perhaps a few exceptions the production is right in tone and true to the spirit of the cartoon characters which it has borrowed. It is not a great piece but it is a mighty good one.

REFORM IN MEXICO.

[Boston Herald.]

Persons familiar with conditions beyond the Rio Grande will be inclined to say, "Well, it was about time," when they read of the proposed program there.

Labor went long ago to extremes which are hard to justify. Wages and working conditions have impeded the legitimate development of the country. The Mexican railroads, now under the management of labor, are run very poorly. The immigration laws discriminate severely against industrial management of any kind by non-Mexicans. The constitutional provisions regarding natural wealth have been so interpreted as to result in expropriation.

The Mexican system as a whole militates against gains for outside capital, and also against permanent benefits for the Mexicans themselves. Even tourist trade is not half of what it should be, as Mexico is a magnificent country, well worth the attention of millions of Americans who have never been there.

Those who know what Mexico went thru under Diaz and some other presidents can understand why the country has rushed so far and so quickly to the left, even if they offer no justifications. The fact now seems to be, however, that a more moderate policy by the Camacho administration would attract capital which is badly needed and would tend to give Mexico a genuine industrial, tourist, agricultural, and social expansion which would not endanger in the least the desirable advances of the last few years. The tentative program outlined by President Camacho and his associates does no more than align Mexico with other forward looking nations. It is, indeed, as opponents of the program say, a move to the right, but there is hardly any room for an advance to the left.

It never seems to be a secret that somebody has hurried away on a secret mission.—Indianapolis News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

MR. PEPYS FACES 1941.

31st Dec.—Now, this being the end of the year, I suppose I should do something about it, such as staying up all night at some rout or public place of amusement and casting an alcoholic cloud over my mind to protect my senses against the orchestral din. And no doubt I should arise the next day to greet the first sunshine, if any, of the new year in the mood of total despair which such indulgences bring. Nevertheless, I shall do nothing of the sort, but will defy tradition.

The past year has been a time of troubled spirit in the nation, for the people have been gazing, so to speak, into a mirror in which the woes and wars of other continents have been reflected. Yet if we had not been gazing into that mirror, seeing ominous portents there, we would not have much to complain about in the year's events. In fact, we might consider ourselves, in the main, as fortunate. Yet I fear we may continue staring into that bewildering glass until we become nearly mad, like the rest of the world. That is the story the year 1941 will tell. But I am no prophet, like so many others now writing pamphlets and making radio speeches; and I will not try to see into the new year any farther than tomorrow, which I hope will be a bright day, fit for a walk in the gray and leafless wobds, where birds will sing three months hence no matter what wars are going.

And so I will step across the threshold of 1941, seeking to avoid political arguments, and hysterical interpreters of history, and places where strong drink is flowing in abundance, especially eggnog. My only New Year's vow is total abstinence from that sickly cup and its cloying comrade, Tom and Jerry.

A Hermit Back in the Hills.

We were way back in the hills, and I found a cabin where an old hermit was drawing on his corncob pipe. After looking me over with a steady eye, he said, "Come and set." We talked about the weather, etc., and I finally asked him what he thought about the war.

Upon my word of honor, he did not know that we had had a war "to make the world safe for democracy," or that Europe was having its aftermath now. I thought how fine it would be if some of the Americans who want to get us into this war could be as contented in their own souls as this 93 year old hermit, whose only book was a Bible, which answered all his questions. E. J. B.

A Few Remarks on the English Language.

They say a preposition is a bad word to end a sentence with.
But to me it is no worse than remembering to say tithe and not tith.
And I don't need a municipal golf course to get into a condition of stymie
When there are so many times and places I have to decide whether it is I or me.
Maybe you don't ever have any trouble making a choice between who and whom,
But you are probably one of those creatures who feels perfectly at ease in a Louis Quinze room.
Please don't ever ask me to explain the difference between swing, swang, and swung;
There is already enough trouble in this world besides our native tongue.

ON MY STREET IN OUR TOWN.

In our town the Christmas trees
Still gleam night after night;
I guess we hate to take them down—
So we just don't, in our town.

On my street, when I come home
As winter darkness falls,
A rajah's jewels could not compete
With windows, there, on my street.

In other towns, on any street,
The Christmas trees keep glowing;
But where one goes on homebound feet,
They make the finest showing.

What So Proudly We Hailed!

Almost until the day the electoral college met, a streamer of ticker tape, gay relic of the Willkie parade, waved jauntily from the trolley wires at La Salle and Monroe streets. It is down now, but another bit still flutters from the clock at the southeast corner of the intersection. It looks as tho it might hold out until 1944! Newcomer.

In reviewing the outstanding events of 1940, please do not overlook the prize "boner" of President Roosevelt's own radio announcer [Carleton Smith] at the solemn hour of 11 o'clock on Armistice day:

"The President now has unbared his head."

COLITIS: A PROBLEM IN NUTRITION.

ULCERATIVE colitis is not an agreeable companion. Only in recent years, however, have physicians made much progress against this distressing ailment. As is now well understood, there are two things to consider: first, the vicious disorder itself; and, second, the loss of nutritive material which is occurring constantly via the bowel.

When the malady settles down for a long siege this latter factor is of the highest importance. We cannot expect improvement while the body is wasting away, slowly but steadily. Only with the absorption of good food can adequate resistance be built to overcome the infection. In other words, when nutritional deficiencies exhibit themselves the main attack is directed toward restoring the missing elements. Otherwise the patient can scarcely hold his own, much less advance toward recovery.

Anemia must be combated vigorously, since the stools usually contain blood. More iron may be discharged than is taken in. Even that which is consumed is probably not well utilized. Then, too, the red cells may not be manufactured rapidly enough to replace the hemorrhage and the low state of reserve further retards the production of new ones. While iron may be given by mouth, more important perhaps are liver feedings, as well as transfusions of small amounts of blood—2 to 4 ounces daily. The plan should be persisted in until the state of the circulation reaches approximately par.

The intestines are in poor condition to absorb protein and much of that eaten is thrown off—undigested. Examination of the blood may show too little of this component in the fluid portion and this accounts for swelling in the extremities or even the face. Here, again, transfusions are of the greatest value, or the direct introduction of plasma into a vein.

As we would expect, there is a severe vitamin shortage because the restricted diet, if long continued, will contain too little of practically every type. Physicians who have had much to do with this puzzling disorder have observed cases of eye inflammation, sore throat and tongue, pain in the calves of the legs, etc.

Thus it is that vitamins A, B, C, and K especially will be needed. Many a patient can date the upturn in his case to the administration of B complex in generous quantities. There is no danger of taking too much. Spongy or bleeding gums may mean that C is lacking, which indicates that cevitamic acid may be called for. If the circulation is found to clot slowly, bleeding is likely to increase. In such instances K exerts a favorable influence. Many of these substances may be given by injection.

Of course, we must provide for plenty of minerals as well as fluids. Sometimes the disease is so severe that we cannot wait for the digestion of a balanced meal to take care of the situation. Extra calcium particularly will be required.

I know of no other affliction which so closely resembles starvation as this type of colitis. In fact, it is the chief endeavor of the medical adviser to restore nutrition as rapidly as possible without much reliance on the digestive tract. This canal should be spared as much work as possible. If healing is to come, rest is essential.

Of course, we realize that only as we can provide for gains in strength will we give the patient a chance for recovery.

MIGRAINE.

R. G. writes: I have been troubled recently with my stomach and have shown many of the symptoms you described in your article on migraine headaches. Recently I was told that I have a "migraine stomach." Is there such a thing?

REPLY.

In most attacks, nausea and vomiting are like the thunder that follows lightning. Occasionally, victims will complain of actual pain in this region, in addition to the intense neuralgialike distress which affects one side of the head.

CONTRACTION OF ARTERIES.

R. J. writes: What would cause a cerebral vascular spasm?

REPLY.

An upset on the part of the sympathetic [autonomic] nervous system. Certain nerve fibers send massages to the arteries, causing them to contract or to dilate, as the case may be. The starter may be an emotional disturbance or nervous strain.

FOR A NEW NATIONAL PARTY.

Palos Park, Ill., Dec. 27.—The southern states have been frequently blamed for the obduracy they have shown in maintaining a one-party system and under all circumstances, with one exception, voting for the Democratic party no matter how far the party had drifted from its moorings and the traditional political beliefs of the south. They have been charged with keeping alive sectional prejudices and of being unresponsive to appeals for national consideration except such as could be obtained thru the Democratic party.

I wonder if in a way the people of the north have not been equally stubborn in adhering to things which are an incitation to unpleasant memories and prejudices. I refer to the perpetuation of th name of Republican as the principal party of opposition to the Democratic in this country. To the north as a whole the party has had a history which it considers glorious, but to allow sentimental considerations to insist on the preservation of the name when it is an obstacle to unity and progress, certainly would not be in the spirit of the founders of the party. Human nature being as it is, it is foolish to expect that the people of the south will ever in large numbers vote the Republican ticket, but a large number of thoughtful southerners regret the one-party system of the south and would welcome the opportunity of voting their views and not their prejudices.

It would therefore seem to be the ripe and expedient time to form a national party which should not be merely a change of name of the Republican, but a merging of people of all parties who desire to see questions settled on the basis of their value to the Union.

If any large number of the people of the south would embrace such a movement the Republicans of the north should realize that their party had served its purpose and that national exigencies required its merging into a nonsectional party formed from people from all sections of the country who see alike on national problems.

National party requires no explanation of its aims, and it could start free from all prejudices and biases of the past. Will the north provide this example for the south? EVAN L. REED.

PETRILLO DEFENDED.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—"A Future Soldier" in today's Voice of the People gives the wrong slant on James Petrillo.

If the drop of an opening show costs $500 the theater is billed that price. Every theater on successive bookings pays that price for the use of the same curtain which is a "property."

Music talent in the same way is sold to a radio program sponsor or a theater at a price exclusive of overhead. Whether this price is two or ten times the musician's salary, he receives only his stipulated wage. It is his living.

Petrillo watches this bread and butter. He does it effectively. He keeps the musician in a job. As soon as it was agreed that no regular musicians would be deprived of employment by army band music on the air he waived objections and demands for time limitations.

EXPLANATION AND APOLOGY.

Highland Park, Ill., Dec. 27.—I thought you might be interested in knowing what results I got from my letter about postage on Christmas cards

From the people who differ, the letters sent to this column, and a card with a 1½ cent stamp on it, with a clever sketch of a skunk, autographed by "The Skunk Family."

From the people who agree, 11 letters and two telephone calls, thanking me in their various ways for starting a discussion on this taboo subject. Two postmasters, both in charge of postoffices in good sized towns, said that their offices were in confusion and disgust each year because they were obliged to destroy thousands of Christmas cards which were sent under the third class rate of 1½ cents and which were incorrectly addressed. Third class mail is not forwarded or returned to sender.

I still maintain that the Christmas message is a very personal one—a yearly handclasp between friends and families—of recognition of the beauty of the love that Christ bore for all men. Out of this love comes the wish, one to another, for the Happy New Year, safe from all sorrow and misfortune. This most beautiful exchange of thought is certainly as dignified as any letter, and should be sent first class, and not third class, as a commercial advertisment, to be kicked around and perhaps finally destroyed.

I sincerely regret that I called any one a skunk. It was most unmannerly and thoughtless. I hope that this will be forgiven, and that the thought that I am trying to convey will be understood.

HELEN WEEKS.

WAR TO THE END.

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 26.—What is the use of talk about peace at the present juncture, unless it is meant to help Germany by slowing down our aid to Britain? Peace is impossible. Hitler has plainly demanded a free hand in Europe, giving him time to solidify his vast conquests and prepare for the next step in his fiendish ambition to subjugate the world. Britain cannot possibly agree to this, and neither can we. England has made it quite clear that she will fight on till the Nazis consent to restore all the free countries Hitler has conquered, which means the abandonment of German schemes of world dominion. The Fuehrer will never agree to that unless defeat becomes inevitable.

Surely our own course is clear. A British victory means safety to America and the old world; German success, the break-up of the British and French empires, with the most awful consequences to all mankind. Can the mightiest democracy in the world hesitate for a moment about throwing her full weight on Britain's side? [REV.] C. G. ELSAM.

PROPAGANDA.

Chicago, Dec. 21. — We are certainly getting a lot of false propaganda over here. You cannot make me believe that a strike would be tolerated because one man was making too many uniforms or that all of the men necessary to unload ships would not be put to work if England was in any danger of hunger or invasion. SKEPTICUS.

A HAND OF BRIDGE.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—This is to verify that on Saturday, Nov. 30, Arnold Berlin of Glencoe, Ill., was dealt 13 spades in a game of bridge and made a bid of seven [7] spades doubled and redoubled. Thank you. STEPHEN CHASE V.
DICK LANDON.
DON ROYCE.

CAMP POLK.

La Porte, Ind., Dec. 21.—Since there has been much discussion on the renaming of Camp Peay at Tullahoma, Tenn., where the Illinois troops are to be trained, may I suggest that a most fitting name would be Camp James K. Polk in honor of the 11th President of the United States.

He was a resident of the state of Tennessee at the time of his election to the Presidency and was buried at Nashville.

He had much to do with the annexation of Texas, the Oregon boundary, the Mexican war, whereby New Mexico and California were ceded to the United States. Other important measures of his administration were the admission of Iowa and Wisconsin to the Union. There have been numerous tributes paid to other early Presidents, but to my knowledge none ever has been paid to this great American. JOSEPH H. MITCHELL.

ANOTHER REGISTRATION.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The registration of aliens, which was conducted under the alien registration act from Aug. 27 to Dec. 26, is now completed. It appears that only a little over 3 per cent of the population failed to become citizens of this great nation.

The next congress should pass an act which would require the registration of all war mongers in America, be they American born, naturalized, or aliens.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A wife dies and is survived by a husband and three children.

1. A piece of property is left with title in her name which was paid for entirely from the earnings of husband. The husband pays all taxes and upkeep of same.
2. How is title now shared, no party desiring to sell?
3. Can taxes, doctor, hospital, and funeral bills paid by husband be of any value in obtaining a title, children willing to waive any claim to title?
4. If husband remarried does second wife have any claim to title if children refuse waiver?
5. Is husband liable for support of second wife's children [not his own] and [6] have they any claim to title of property in first wife's name? B. J.

1. Ordinarily it is presumed that a gift is intended on such facts.
2. Presumably title is in the heirs of the deceased wife.
3. Depends on their ratio to the value.
4. She would acquire a dower interest in her husband's share.
5. No.
6. They would not inherit from him, but if she dies first and he inherits a part of her share, then such part might go to his children.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE will be many gay parties to "ring out the old, ring in the new" in clubs and private residences, as well as in all the hotels and restaurants. The Casino, which has been filled with lights and music every night during the holidays, will be turned over to the subdeb crowd for the Junior assembly. The stag line won't be as long as usual, nor have as many old young men in it, for ordinarily there is no debut party on New Year's eve and all the college men who beau the debs go to the Junior assembly and dance with the younger girls on the last night of the year. Tonight, however, Miss Barbara Hixon is making her formal bow to society at a dinner-dance in Lake Forest.

Miss Hixon Is the Last Debutante of 1940.

Miss Hixon, daughter of the Robert Hixons, will have the distinction of being the last debutante of 1940. The stroke of midnight will find her and her friends dancing to the strains of an orchestra in the Onwentsia club, where giant red poinsettia trees will be silhouetted against white parchment walls.

The debutante will wear an exquisite white lace gown, and the camellias in her bouquet shade from flesh pink to deep red. Her mother will be in a contrasting shade of blue lamé, with a corsage of white orchids. Here from St. Louis for the dinner-dance is Miss Jane Houser, Miss Hixon's roommate at Finch Junior college.

At the Racquet club the same crowd of young married couples, postdebs, and their beaux who have made merry at the club on New Year's eve for about six years will assemble for a supper-dance, all clad in fancy costumes. The young Potter Palmers started the parties.

Mrs. Emmons Blaine Giving Supper-Dance Tonight.

Mrs. Emmons Blaine gave the first of what her guests hope will be an annual holiday party three years ago when her granddaughter, Miss Nancy Blaine, was a debutante. It was a dinner-dance several days before Christmas. Last year Mrs. Blaine gave a New Year's eve supper-dance for her granddaughter and this year she is having the same sort of party.

Biggest suprise of the evening at the Saddle and Cycle club's party tonight will be the name band which has been engaged to help members dance the old year out and the new one in. The room has been entirely decorated in white and not even the windows have been left free of the white hangings and whitened sprays of pine boughs.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Shepard will entertain at a cocktail party before the dance. The John Roots, Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. William Cox, the Henry Babsons, and Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Harris are others who will entertain parties at the dance.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fox will entertain a group of young friends of their daughter, Carol, at dinner in the Pump room preceding the Junior assembly. Another young hostess at dinner before the party will be Miss Nancy Graff, daughter of the Everett D. Graffs.

Dinner At Tavern Club to Precede Junior Assembly.

For the first time, this year's series of University Colony club parties includes a New Year's eve celebration. Tonight the "college-plus" group of the club [college age, just over college age, and young married couples] will be entertained at a supper-dance at the Windermere East hotel. The party starts at 10 o'clock and Mrs. Harold J. Gordon is in charge. Mrs. Fred M. Lorish is chairman of the entertainment committee which makes arrangements for the club's parties.

Mrs. Rollins Chamberlin is in charge of the roller skating party which the club will give at the White City rink toward the end of January.

Miss Mary Pynchon leaves today for Stamford, Conn., where she lives with her mother, Mrs. John Rowland, to begin making arrangements for her marriage on March 1 to William Jenkins of Stamford. Miss Pynchon has been visiting her father, Harold C. Pynchon, and Mrs. Pynchon in Chicago. The marriage will take place in Stamford and Mr. Jenkins and his bride will reside there.

Mrs. Kenneth Templeton Goes to Visit New Grandson.

Mrs. Kenneth Templeton of Lake Forest departed last night for Cincinnati to make the acquaintance of her second grandchild, a boy born yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Sidney D. Johnson. The former Josephine Templeton and Mr. Johnson have a daughter, Frederica, who is 18 months old. The new baby is to be named Sidney G. Johnson after his grandfather, on whose birthday he was born. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Johnson live in Rahway, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins Jr. haven't yet decided on the full name of their new daughter, born on Dec. 26 at the Passavant hospital, but Judy is what she'll be called. The young lady has a 2 year old sister, Deborah. Mrs. Collins is the former Louise Neff.

Altho she spent Christmas day in the hospital, Mrs. R. Gregory Durham will enjoy New Year's in her own home. The Durhams' second son, Anthony Gregory, was born on Dec. 17 at the Chicago Lying-in hospital. Young Master Anthony has a 2 year old brother, Edwin.

Mrs. John Ritchie is entertaining at breakfast today for Miss Janet Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin D. Jenkins. The debutante is at home for the holidays from Wheaton college in Massachusetts.

'Faun' Danced Admirably by Ballet Russe

BY EDWARD BARRY.

At the Auditorium last night the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo successfully presented the Nijinsky-Debussy classic, "The Afternoon of a Faun."

This statement is much more impressive than it sounds, for the "Faun" is one of the hardest works in the répertoire. To catch its warm, drowsy, sensuous quality, to preserve its antiquity and its sense of distance, and to do all this when it is obvious that the slightest miscalculation will make the ballet merely funny—these add up to a formidable task.

Youri Zoritch mimed this rather dopey faun, whose pursuit of the nymphs is never much more than half-hearted and who seems glad of an excuse to abandon the whole project. He kept skilfully within the limited frame of the piece. Equally successful in avoiding anything which would disturb the delicate balance of the choreography was Jeanette Lauret in the part of the chief nymph. Conductor Franz Allers kept the orchestra serene and dreamlike.

Just preceding the "Faun" versatile Miss Lauret had done a reasonably sultry Zobeide in the company's second performance of "Scheherazade." She does not approach Lubov Tchernicheva in her presentation of the worldly, knowing qualities of Zobeide, but her youthfulness gives the final scene of the tragedy a remarkable poignancy.

Speaking of "Scheherazade," sufficient emphasis has never been placed on the work of Jean Yasvinsky as the Shah Shariar. There is regal dignity in his slightest motion. The terrible struggle at the end between duty and what he regards as weakness is admirably portrayed.

200 Librarians Visit U. of Chicago School

About 200 librarians yesterday attended a meeting in the social science research building at the University of Chicago celebrating the 12th anniversary of the founding of the university's graduate library school. Librarian Helen M. Harris of the Lawson McGhee library, Knoxville, Tenn., presided. Speakers included Frederic Woodward, vice president emeritus of the university; Robert Lester, secretary of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, which has contributed a total of $1,560,000 to the school; President Lucy E. Fay of the Association of American Library Schools, and Louis Round Wilson, dean of the school.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 30.—One of our more imposing British stars prowled around a Beverly Hills shop a few days before Christmas, seeking gifts. The manager waited on him as he poked and examined and kept snorting, "Too much . . . it's an outrage . . . too high . . . You shouldn't be permitted to charge prices like that." The manager, unable to endure it any longer, smoothly replied: "I have seen several of your pictures and I think they pay you too much money."

Very few film folk turned up for the Santa Anita opening, most of them apparently preferring to wait until today—a big charity show—for their first appearance. . . . Hedy Lamarr, Jane Withers' cat, gave birth to six kittens in the seat of Jane's Christmas roadster. Father's name is Rhett Butler. . . . Sixty Twentieth Century-Fox technicians trained to Mexico City today to set up for "Blood and Sand." Tyrone Power and Annabella will fly down Jan. 4, and Linda Darnell will leave a few days later. . . . With all the ten best this and ten best that lists going around, there ought to be a list of players making the most vivid impression in the shortest time—like the double talking fotog in "Arise, My Love." . . . Frank Nugent has turned in his script on Stephen Longstreet's novel, "The Golden Touch." . . . Mr. Zanuck's "Brooklyn Bridge" now isn't going to be about Brooklyn bridge. Plans for the picture began with the purchase of the Roebling book; but, as I understand it, the Roebling family declined to have its name used in the film. For a while it was thought that Don Ameche could build the span under an assumed name. The final revised plan is to make "Brooklyn Bridge" a sort of "Dead End," with all the action taking place beneath the bridge. This, of course, was the locale for "Winterset."

The restaurant table telephone has its uses for conferences and for ordinary showing off, but its most characteristic Hollywood service is as an alibi. Suppose a married celeb goes to a night spot without his wife. It may be—as was one case last week—that the lady couldn't come along on account of just having had a baby. However good the reason for her absence, if it weren't for the telephone tongues would start a wagging and in two hours the rumor of a splitup would be all over town. But, within five minutes of arriving in the night joint, the celeb beckons up the phone and calls the missus and says "Hello, darling, and how are you now," and then he says to the joint at large, "It's my wife. Anybody want to talk to her?" And two or three of her women friends flutter over and say "Hello, darling," and "Yes, he is cold sober and looks very lonely without you and we will take very good care of him." These little duty calls have scotched many a divorce rumor.

Carmen Miranda shudders at what they do to avocados out here. Slicing them and putting them in salads and pouring French dressing over them—phooey! Now you make a Brazilian dessert out of the things and you have something. Peel five avocados, mash them in a bowl, put the goo thru a sieve. Add sugar until it is "verree sweet" and whip. Stir in juice of one lemon, two jiggers of port wine, and whip some more. Pour into sherbet glasses, chill and serve.

Hollywood got a new bit player and a new stand-in last week—Bette Davis and Betty Brewer.

At Warners', Irving Rapper, former dialog director on many Davis pictures, began his first assignment as a director. The picture is "Winged Victory," with Geraldine Fitzgerald and James Stephenson. Miss Davis, who has long been interested in Rapper's career, went on the set and played a bit rôle as a nurse—and fixed it so that the extra who had been engaged for the job would get her pay anyway.

At RKO, Sam Wood was directing "The Devil and Miss Jones." For the rôle of a brat in a shoe store scene he engaged Eileen Brewer, 11 year old sister of Betty Brewer. It was Eileen's first job, and Eileen has always been a little jealous of 13 year old Betty's quick rise to stardom in "Rangers of Fortune." Betty, however, is between pictures at Paramount—so she came over to her kid sister's lot and acted as stand-in for her.

The Warners will probably sign Rita Hayworth for another picture—Mona Maris, who did little for several years and then scored heavily in "Flight from Destiny," has had juicy new offers from several studios—and is holding out for much more than the modest wage she got in the "Destiny" film. . . . Interesting that Ann Sheridan's long suspension did not prevent her from ranking high in the main annual movie poll. . . . Arline Judge, who is bent on making a movie comeback, has done a more or less paradoxical thing for a girl who is returning to the business. She turned down the rôle of Tillie the Toiler—because, if she accepted it, she would have to do eight pictures. She wants 'em one at a time, and all different if possible. . . . Alberto Vila, who can't read much English, got on the loose alone a few days before Christmas and bought his own cards. Result is that people have been getting the strangest things. His producer, for instance, received a card designed to comfort a young girl who has just pulled thru a serious operation and is still in the hospital. . . . Doug. Churchill's magazine party at Ciro's, at which "Our Town" got a big loving cup as the best production of the year—Bette Davis doing the presenting and Martha Scott doing the receiving—was a typically carefree Hollywood affair until F. D. R. made his rearmament speech. A radio had been installed in the main room, and the speech caused an astonishing switch from gay to grim.

"New Year's Eve in New York"..Janssen

BY CECIL SMITH.

Remi Gassmann, the young American composer, who now makes Chicago his home and teaches musical theory to the Civic orchestra students, celebrated his 32d birthday in the Great Northern theater last evening. Within the walls of that excellent seat of musical advancement, Janet Fairbank, soprano, and the Illinois Symphony orchestra, conducted by Ralph Rose, gave the first Chicago performance of four of Mr. Gassmann's songs.

All four of the songs—an aria and three love lyrics—are settings of Walt Whitman's poetry. Mr. Gassmann's treatment of the texts is individual to the point of seeming to have little or nothing to do with the poetry.

While he has discovered and consistently maintained a unified musical style of rather bare but clear and understandable dissonance, he has not successfully related this style to the Whitman lines, to say nothing of the Whitman mood. Scansion and inflection are awkward and frequently unnatural. Words, phrases and lines are repeated at will, when an abstract musical pattern requires such sophisticated treatment.

Miss Fairbank hurdled the unnecessary gaucheries of text-setting skillfully, endeavoring with some success to make unimportant monosyllables sound reasonable when they were placed notes higher than the notes used for important and meaningful words. Her voice, larger than in former years, carried well above the orchestra, and her top tones were easy and effective.

The two skirmishes for orchestra by George Andè, "Between a Peg Leg Sailor and a Dog" and "Between a Chicken and a Worm," are bright trifles with realistic sound effects. The first is the better of the two because it has a tune.

Aaron Copland's ballet music for "Billy the Kid" is rather too repetitious for concert presentation, but it is cleanly scored, and shows how much the composer has learned from Stravinsky, Prokofieff and Nadia Boulanger. Werner Janssen's "New Year's Eve in New York," written in 1930, shows, on the other hand, why many critics at that time were afraid that American music had no future. Mr. Rose conducted all the modern music well.

Musical Criticism.

Yippie, the terrier of Xenia Weicher, sister of Concertmaster John Weicher of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, doesn't listen when Heifetz, Szigeti, and other violinists are on the air, but always listens to Albert Spalding, it was reported to us yesterday. Yippie heard Spalding first about two years ago and moved up to the radio, sat down and listened intently. When Spalding began to play Chausson's Poeme with the New York Philharmonic Sunday afternoon, Yippie dashed from the far part of the house to listen to his favorite.

As a matter of fact, Binjy, one of our own terriers, came in to sit beside the radio and listen to Spalding play the Chausson number Sunday afternoon, then walked gravely off when the famous violinist had finished. Binjy couldn't visualize the ballet Jardin Aux Lilas to the Chausson music as he listened, tho, or see the lovely lilac dusk of the setting.

In the Morning Mail.

As a guest of the Sacred Heart sanitarium during the Christmas holidays I went to my bath about 9 o'clock in the morning before Christmas. I heard the faint strains of Silent Night, Holy Night, and stood for a moment to listen. Then my eyes caught sight of a Franciscan nun crouched on the floor by the bed of a patient. With one hand the nun was stroking the head of the patient, while with the other she held a harmonica to her lips and in subdued tones played the Christmas carol to the listening ears. As I looked the patient's eyelids closed under the caressing touch and the music and she slept.

What sort of a back does your evening dress reveal? The skin should be satin smooth, completely free of blemishes and delicately "made up."

Not only the youngsters home from school but mature women as well have complaints at this time of year about backs that are anything but beautiful. The low cut evening dresses reveal back blemishes in all their lack of glory.

What to do? Well, if the problem is freckles the only thing to do is to cover them up with that marvelous preparation that was created to conceal birthmarks. The skin tone can be matched, application isn't too difficult, and results are excellent. If the problem is just an occasional little pimple of the kind that always pops out when you want so badly to look your best you can use a little stick of the same preparation. It camouflages small areas quite efficiently. This stick, by the way, is something all young girls should have. They nearly always get some little skin blemish on face, neck, or back at the most inconvenient times. This stick, used about as a lipstick would be over the blemish and then blended in, can save them a lot of unhappiness.

If the back skin is just scaly and rough try creaming, then scrubbing with a stiff brush and then creaming again. The friction is terribly important, because it carries away the rough little scales that are so disfiguring.

Blackheads and pimples call for intelligent treatment based on exquisite cleanliness. Watch shoulder straps and dress linings to be sure that they're immaculate. Cleanse the skin with a soothing, light cream, then, using a stiff brush or perhaps one of those special blackhead pastes or powders, scrub it well. Don't pick at the blemishes!

Holidays Bring Superlatives in Party Clothes

BY REA SEEGER.

The many dramatic evening dinner and dance dresses designed expressly for the holidays are unquestionably the most complete roundup of party clothes in town. From the newest dull black sleek affairs of clinging crêpe flashing with gold braid, kid-skin applique, and tricky beadwork, the all white creations that look like vaporous clouds, to the yardage items, some boasting as many as a couple dozen yards of net or frothy tulle in the skirt, the collections are something to make fashion history!

For the very young set, there is a bountiful supply of pale blue, pale pink, pale gold color, and all the scarlet finds, each with wide, wide fluttery skirts, brief bodices and all the glitter of sequins, paillettes and bows of metallic cloth sprinkled hither and yon among the tulle lace and net.

For the more sophisticated college crowd and the debs are collections of slinky white and pastel jerseys with barbaric wide belts handsomely studded with simulated jewels. Or the wickedly black finds that are made of thin, airy materials to swish over taffeta slips, and petticoats. Or the brand new floral crêpes that flaunt the flowers and foliage of rare, exotic South sea island designs. Or the very new and smart crêpe dinner dresses with long fitted sleeves in tangerine gold, or equally distinctive jerseys of combined contrasts such as watermelon pink with jade or emerald green with dull white. Another beauty features a clinging white skirt attached to a breath takingly beautiful blouse top of shimmering silver lamé, the bodice fitted with below-the-elbow length sleeves.

Lace has come into the fashion spotlight. Lovely flattering beige or warm gray or midnight blue, the always charming shell or flesh pink. White lace is combined with black lace, black lace is exquisitely dramatized over pale beige of café au lait chiffon and so on.

White lace is going strong in dresses that are all white, with perhaps bows of green or cerise, and in those made of the snowy white patterned stuff contrasted with soot black. Cinnamon brown spiderweb fine lace is another perfect color for color contrasts. Try flesh pink or delft blue, chartreuse or cherry red with this brown as an alternative for the usual old gold and copper. This brown as well as the superflattering Burgundy red offer two "can't be equaled" shades for the prematurely gray women who reasonably rebel against the more obvious accents of blue or black.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Cheli Scott, Norma Tredwill goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her stepdaughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment, goes in and finds Paul has been murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Gerente, with orders in code from the naval intelligence. On a hunch Maclain goes to Paul's apartment and finds Cameron with the dead man. Cameron confesses to the murder, but Maclain doubts his story. Barbara disappears. Norma's stepson, Gilbert, is designing engineer for Bunny Carter, who is head of the aircraft works. In Gilbert's workshop, some one pushes a wardrobe on Norma and she suspects it is Bella, the maid. Col. Gray, head of the New York defense plans, commissions Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with the murder of Paul and the bombing sight Gilbert has designed. Maclain goes to the Tredwill home with his two seeing-eye dogs, ostensibly to solve Barbara's disappearance. He discovers Gilbert's bombing sight plans have been traced and later finds Bella beheaded. He has noticed the odor of violets in Paul's apartment and noticed it again about Bella. He concludes it is a trademark of a foreign spy system, but believes Bella was murdered because she was working for the naval intelligence while pretending to work for the spies. Maclain goes with Carter to the aviation plant where he hears Louis Madoc, foreman, speak and recognizes the voice of the man who visited him the night of Gerente's murder, pretending to be Gerente. A perfume ad is mailed Norma from the House of Bonnee, and Maclain decodes it, finding it is a message to kidnap him and find the defense plans. He throws the ad out as bait to catch the criminals after he has sent a message to Spud in the city to go to the House of Bonnee, investigate and be ready to capture the kidnap gang. Spud goes there and the sales girl tries to sell him some black violet perfume. Spud refuses to buy and is knocked out by a whiff of it. Upon reviving, he puts up a battle to escape, but is shot. Cameron, who confessed to Gerente's murder, is also working for the intelligence service. The spies think he is locked up under suspicion of murder, but he has been trailing Maclain. He breaks into Maclain's apartment and hears the message on the dictaphone Maclain sent Spud. He reports to Col. Gray.

CAUGHT.

After a couple of minutes of continuous ringing on the clerk's part, the elevator boy inquired with a jocular air, "Well, what did he say?"

"I'll show him," the clerk said nastily between his teeth. "He can't come into this hotel and just disappear."

He walked out from behind the desk and went to the lobby door.

"Mike," he told the doorman, "get a cop. A burglar just came in here."

"Sure," said Mike. "Where is he?"

"How the hell do I know?" the night clerk demanded. "That sap Thomas took him upstairs and let him off at the 24th floor. He's probably started up there and is working down. Don't let any vans back up here, load, and drive away."

The doorman put a whistle to his lips and whistled shrilly. A taxicab swept up to the curb and stopped.

"I'll send you one." The cab driver gave a loud Bronx cheer and pulled away.

"You could phone," the elevator boy reminded the clerk when he returned to his desk.

"That's why you're an elevator operator instead of a night manager." The clerk dipped his pen in the ink and threw a blob on the floor. "Well run hotels don't have police cars screaming up to the doors."

"No," said the elevator boy. "They whistle for taxies to carry their burglars away."

"You go to hell!"

"I'm sorry," the clerk told him, "I didn't mean you."

"Where's the burglar?" the cop demanded.

"Ask the elevator boy." The clerk turned back to his transcript. "He took him up to the 24th floor."

"Come on," said the cop efficiently, "I'll have him in the wink of an eye."

Arnold C. Cameron waited on the 24th floor until the elevator had dropped from sight before he stepped into the private lift close by and pushed the button which took him up two flights more. There he rang the bell on Maclain's penthouse door. There was no answer, and after a short wait he took a leather keyholder from his pocket, selected one, and opened the door. A nightlight burned dimly in the small reception room. Cameron went into Maclain's office, turned on soft indirect lights concealed in the molding, and stood still for a while appraising the furniture and equipment. His gray eyes opened a shade wider at sight of the dictaphone.

He took a few soft-footed strides and sat down in Maclain's chair. There he adjusted the transmitter by moving the needle back to zero, let it down on the record, and turned it on.

He sat immobile until Maclain's voice said, "If you find anything suspicious, get in touch with Col. Gray. Tel him that I'm more important than anything for the moment, and to keep an eye on me."

He clicked off the record and put his elbows on the desk. Resting his chin in cupped hands, he stared at the telephone. The number on the dial was Susquehanna 7-0039, Ext. 2.

Cameron puckered his lips, pushed back the chair, and swiftly began to go thru the desk drawers. In the top one on the left-hand side he found another telephone. He dialed a number with automatic precision and leaned back in the chair.

After a few rings some one answered and Cameron said, "Jack, it's me. The barge is loaded with women and children and it's about to go down. They moved too fast for us. Sometime between 9 and 10 o'clock they snatched Maclain and a girl."

Cameron said, "Sign off for once, will you, and listen to me. The girl's name is Cheli Scott, a visitor at the Crags. She was driving Maclain into the Hartford postoffice. They must have been held up on the road. Police found her deserted car."

"I'm in Maclain's office," said Cameron with a patient sigh. "I highballed it down here to see if I could find something that would give me a lead. Maclain sent a message down to New York by his chauffeur several hours ago. It's on a record. Hold tight and I'll play it to you over the telephone."

He picked up the recording mouthpiece from the combination dictaphone and after a couple of tries succeeded in shutting off the radio and making the mouthpiece talk into the phone.

When Cameron put the telephone receiver to his ear again the voice said excitedly. "That's a pretty kettle of stew. Where does this Bonnee come into the picture?"

"I don't know, do you?"

"No." The voice became icy and authoritative, snapping out orders over the telephone. "Everything's set for a roundup from here to the coast tomorrow night—Christmas eve. Any tipoff now and a whole year's work is undone. Maclain's been let down cold. He thinks he's being protected and he isn't. Get back up to Hartford as fast as you can haul it, and see what you can do."

"And what about the House of Bonnee? I might dig up something there."

"They'll have to wait until tomorrow night. I'll include them in the show."

"I don't care if they snatch Jim Farley and nine cabinet members," the voice barked back. "You let that House of Bonnee alone!"

"All right," said Cameron, "but it strikes me that the House of Bonnee is my only chance of ever finding out where they've taken him."

"I'm giving you orders," said the voice. "Let the House of Bonnee alone."

"You're murdering the captain and an innocent girl," Cameron declared metallically and hung up the phone.

He swung around in the chair to look straight down the long dark tube of Patrolman Heeney's police positive. The officer's round moon face hung like a crimson pie over the sight as he lumbered thru the office door.

"Put up your hands," he commanded thunderously.

"Don't shoot," said Cameron pleadingly. "If you miss me the bullet will hit the desk and there's a baby in the drawer."

"Skeleton key," said Cameron. "How did you?"

"With a pass key," the policeman explained, slightly confused. "What are you doing with a baby in that drawer?"

"It's my little boy," said Cameron. "I brought him in under my coat—I thought his mother was here."

The officer's guileless blue eyes narrowed disapprovingly.

"Yes," said Heeney, "to mail letters. What else would I be going in there for?"

"I think you're impersonating an officer," Cameron said. "Sit down in that chair."

"Is it you that's givin' orders?" Heeney demanded, "or is it me?"

"It's me," said Cameron.

Future of Music Rests in America, Director Asserts

Cleveland, O., Dec. 30 (AP).—The future of music rests with America, Sir Ernest MacMillan, director of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and conductor of the Toronto Symphony, said tonight.

"America has fallen heir to all that is best and noblest in European music, including much that Europeans have stupidly discarded for other than aesthetic reasons. To all this America is adding her own quota and, year by year, is standing more firmly on her own musical feet," he said.

Sir Ernest told the Music Teachers' National association that in the past America has been a musical debtor—an importer rather than an exporter.

Pointing to what he described as "the crumbling of cultural greatness in Europe," the Canadian director said "the flood of first class musicians who have been driven to our shores by troubles in their native lands may postpone natural development, but I fancy it will not be long before our own young conductors will come into their own."

New Year's resolutions for a homemaker-cook:

1. I will plan my menus carefully so that they are varied and nutritionally well balanced.

2. I will plan them with the specific needs of my family in mind, considering ages and special dietary requirements.

3. I will market thoroly twice a week, if necessary, so that I won't be sending some one to market at the last minute for butter or bread.

4. I will market in person in order to be able to select quality foods, find bargains, follow seasonal trends and keep my ideas fresh.

5. I will allow enough time for meal-getting, in order to do myself, my family, and the food justice.

6. I will introduce new foods frequently, a new vegetable, an unusual cut of meat, a different dessert.

7. I will do what I can to make the dining room atmosphere cheerful and relaxed, to discourage rushing thru a meal, to make the conversation pleasant and interesting, and to include all members of the family in that conversation.

8. I will make a study of good cookery so that my food is palatable, nutritious, attractive to look at.

9. I will try to instill in the members of my family an appreciation of good cooking, a liking for variety in foods, and an omnivorous attitude. I will discourage food finickiness which is not based on allergy.

10. I will consider cooking and the management of a home as a career deserving time, care, and the application of a good deal of energy.

BEG YOUR PARDON

We're sorry there was an error in the amount of baking powder included in the list of ingredients for Johnny Cake, which appeared in this column on Saturday Dec. 28. Here is the corrected recipe:

1¼ cups white flour
¾ cup cornmeal
2 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter

Mix dry ingredients, add combination of egg, milk and butter, and stir until well mixed. Pour into a greased shallow pan and bake in a 375 degree oven for about 20 minutes. Bacon fat may be used instead of the butter, and a little finely chopped cooked bacon adds delicious flavor.

Good Morning!

KIND: Detective comedy.

ACTING: On the up rather than the down—tho I really don't care so much for Mr. William in this type of rôle. I likes him SINISTER.

DIRECTION: Fair.

DIALOG: Tepid.

STORY: A new feat is performed in the interests of the law by the one time master thief and law breaker known to the police as "The Lone Wolf." This story shows the gentleman as definitely reformed and devoting considerable energy to stamp collecting.

PHOTOGRAPHY, ETC.: Satisfactory.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Some.

✱ On the House ✱

A hint for January. . . . Rock salt is a good investment to make now, and keep on hand for the snowy, icy days ahead. . . . Sand is good, of course, and so are cinders, but rock salt makes ice easier to hack away because it melts it. . . . Furthermore it is cheap and no one has to remove it as water from dissolving ice melts salt—and solves that problem. . . . And steps and walks are safer after sprinkling with this salt.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is an elementary rule of contract that a player should not assist what he knows to be a four card suit unless he also has four trumps. Like every other rule, however, this one must be occasionally shattered. The hand shown below is a perfect example of expert versus average player bidding.

North, dealer.

NORTH
♠ A Q 9 7
♥ J 6
♦ Q J 9 3 2
♣ A 10

WEST
♠ 8 4
♥ A K Q 7 5 2
♦ 10

EAST
♠ 10 6 5 3
♥ 9 4 3
♦ K 6
♣ Q 9 8 4

SOUTH
♠ K J 2
♥ 10 8
♦ A 8 7 5 4
♣ 6 5 3

This hand occurred in a ten-table duplicate game and produced results that were truly remarkable. At five tables the North-South cards were held by experts and at the other five by average players. Every pair of experts bid the hand precisely as follows:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 diamonds	2 hearts
2 spades	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Among the average players the bidding varied slightly, but in each case North opened with a diamond and South responded with two diamonds. After West had bid two hearts and North two spades, some of these South players bid three diamonds and some four, but in no case was the spade suit supported.

Obviously, five diamonds was not in the hand. North had to lose two hearts and a club trick, even with a successful diamond finesse. The four spade contract reached by the experts was a laydown.

It should not be imagined that these experts [South] supported spades only because they were playing duplicate and were, therefore, aiming at a few extra points. They would have bid the same in rubber bridge. The reason was that an 11 trick contract seemed too high. They properly considered the king and jack of spades the equivalent of an extra trump, and to this consideration was added the fact that the doubleton heart in the South hand would protect declarer from having to ruff with the long trump suit.

The play at four spades was elementary, but there was one point worth noting. The defenders collected two heart tricks, and West then shifted to a club. Declarer [North] won with the ace and, before touching trumps, investigated the diamond finesse. Only after the queen held was it safe to draw trumps.

I do not recommend haphazard raising of a four card suit on less than four supporting trumps, but I take this occasion to reiterate that there are no "nevers" in bridge.

Handshake Is Important Factor in Winning Social Success

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Do you ever stop to think of how the first impression a person may get of you is in that handshake? Of how much charm may be incorporated into it? It's true that there is an instantaneous winner or loser in your handshake manipulation. The fact was recalled to us only the other day when a magnificently frocked young woman shook hands with an older one, the latter, in an aside, reporting that "that young woman never should shake hands in order to preserve her reputation as a charming individual."

An athletic life may have fostered the younger woman's handshake, which was made with a quick, abrupt shove of the fist into the waiting hand. That sort of handshake may have more excuse for being than the inert mass of dead fish limpness that sometimes lands in another's outstretched hand.

True, handshaking isn't done as frequently as formerly, but there are occasions of welcoming guests and being welcomed when cordiality ought to be incorporated into the motion, when a bit of warmth should be put into it which is done by really shaking the hand extended you or pressing it warmly without any of the bone crushing zeal you hear about sometimes.

Then there is the question of moving the hands too much which, in most women, is indicative of lack of poise, a mannerism developed to the point of annoyance. One is privileged to talk with her hands if, and when, she chooses, especially if she is the vivacious sort, but the usual complaint against hand language is that it is a twiddly, fiddley performance grown out of lack of control. That's what one must watch for.

Bedtime Story Selection Must Be Wisely Made

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Many parents are as devoted to the idea of a bedtime story for the children as are the children themselves. They love the little session at the end of the day. To them it's all part of the home scene. It is fun. It is cozy. But, like all the things we do which concern our children, it can bear a little thinking about and be done with judgment, as to time and kind of story for the very end of the day.

Have you ever watched to see if the bedtime story you tell has a good effect on your child? And by good effect I mean only as regards his sleep. Have you ever noticed that he doesn't go to sleep as quickly after it, or that he's restless, or that the next day he has an unusual number of dreams to tell you about?

"Doctors disagree," as we all know, and so do those men who have made a lifelong study of psychology and psychoanalysis on the subject of dreams and the subconscious mind. They are not absolute in their conclusions. So, if science cannot settle things for us, we shall have to be thoughtful and observant mothers and settle them for ourselves.

Many such mothers are convinced that their children go to sleep in a more relaxed and normal frame of mind, and consequently body, if they do not have stories read to them immediately before going to sleep. I feel the same way myself.

In the busy life we lead, for many of us the end of the day is the logical time to read to the children. But it doesn't have to be at the very end. Sometimes there's a lull in the late afternoon, or sometimes just before dinner when the vegetables are cooking. Or if your boy or girl is old enough not to have a very early bed hour, right after dinner is a pleasant reading time.

And here is one last suggestion. If the children, either because they are very young or because of the habits of their family, always eat by themselves, a great treat is to read a story to them while they have their supper.

"Helping the Nervous Child" is the name of a leaflet which we will gladly send to you upon receipt of a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

EX-JUDGE TELLS OF N. Y. STATE'S PRINTING GRAFT

Report to Lehman Blames Official Laxity.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 30 [Special].—A picture of political corruption and official laxity that permitted New York taxpayers to be swindled out of thousands of dollars in state printing contracts was given today by former Justice Frederick E. Crane of the New York Court of Appeals. Crane's findings were handed to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, by whom he was appointed to study the situation.

Crane's report said that printing contractors with political connections had fought among themselves over percentage cuts from state contracts and charged that the late Edward O'Connell, former Democratic chief of Albany county, put the contractors in a room together and told them to fight it out among themselves.

It also accused Charles H. Mullens, indicted deputy state controller, of acting as an intermediary in the fight. It charged that Mullens had taken a check and then refused it, demanding that the money he handled be in a different form.

Two Indicted in Bribery.

Most of today's report centered on the operations of Charles C. Walsey, president of the Burland Printing company, and Oliver Quayle, an Albany engraver, principal figures in the fight over state contracts. Walsey already is under indictment with Mullens in New York City on charges of bribing officials.

The Burland company, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's office charges, stole hundreds of thousands of dollars from the city by padding and overcharging on city printing bills. William Solomon, Tammany Hall district leader, aided Mullens, it was charged, in getting city printing contracts for the Burland company. Mullens allegedly received $28,000 from the Burland company for his efforts.

Quayle came into the Crane report in connection with engraving work he had done for many years for the state. The Burland company, thru its political contracts, started to cut in and Walsey, head of the Burland company demanded a 40 per cent cut to let Quayle keep the business, the Crane report alleged. Quayle, it was said, settled for 20 per cent. The arrangements made for payments were approved by Mullens, the report said.

Legislative Influence Told.

Later, the report said, Quayle and Mullens used their influence to have the legislature pass a bill taking most of the contracts out of the Burland company's reach.

Walsey, the report continued, demanded a $30,000 cut and retained O'Connell to collect the money, on a 50 per cent contingent fee basis.

"Eventually," the report said, O'Connell summoned Walsey and Quayle to his office for a conference. After unburdening himself to some blunt advice, he left them in the room with instructions to settle the matter. They finally agreed upon a settlement of $10,000, to be paid by Quayle to Burland."

Vucinich Is Lost to Indians.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 30.—More trouble descended upon Stanford's Indians, the Cinderella men of football, today when an epidemic of sore legs forced abandonment of their morning drill for Wednesday's Rose bowl game and necessitated a switch to another practice field for the afternoon workout.

Hugh Gallarneau.

After several players had reported ailing underpinning at the outset of the morning drill, Coach Clark Shaughnessy polled the squad and learning over half the players were suffering from a mysterious affliction, a halt was called immediately.

Charge Strair to Soft Turf.

Consultation with friends in the coaching profession, notably Curly Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers, led Shaughnessy to the conviction that the soft turf on Brookside park, loosened considerably by the recent rains, had led to slight muscle strains. The afternoon session was switched to a playground near California Tech, where the footing was firmer.

Shaughnessy was visibly upset by the turn of events. He feels his team needs a great deal of work to compete with the powerful defensive squad Nebraska has sent forth as its first representative in any kind of a bowl game. Yesterday he held a drill in a driving rain and scheduled two workouts for today.

For all his lugubrious mein, Shaughnessy, when pinned down, sounded only one gloomy note that rang true. It has been definitely established that Milton Vucinich, a 202 pound sophomore from San Francisco, will be unable to play. Vucinich suffered a knee injury in one of the few scrimmages Shaughnessy tried at Palo Alto before the squad moved down here five days ago.

Standlee Will Play.

Vucinich has been an important cog in Stanford's story book rise to a championship. His loss will not be as serious a one Wednesday as it would have been in the last three games of the season, however, for Norm Standlee, the regular fullback, has almost completely recovered from the ankle injury that sent him out of the Washington game in the first quarter. In Vucinich's absence, Standlee will be backed up by Rod Parker, a senior, who has played only 32 minutes in three games this year.

While Stanford was "wasting a morning"—as Shaughnessy put it—Nebraska, down to one drill a day, posed for photographers in the morning and scampered thru a light workout at Occidental college in the afternoon.

"It worried us for a while," Jones admitted, "but if we aren't ready now, there is little we can do in the next 48 hours, so I'm just taking out time to get a little enjoyment out of the whole affair."

Belittles Man-In-Motion Play.

Shaughnessy has complicated the publicity steamup for a game that needs no ballyhoo by belittling the man-in-motion attack since his arrival here.

"It's just like any other offense," he said, "you have to have the material to make it go. I put it in at Stanford because the material I found there was best adapted to such an attack. Next year I may not have that type of material and if I don't I'll use whatever is best suited to the men available."

To most of the experts it is unreasonable to believe that a system had nothing to do with carrying a team of underdogs to a championship in one season. Particularly a team like Stanford, which has as the bulwark of its line five men who never played varsity football before this fall.

Gallarneau Handy Back.

There will be little difference physically in the two teams when they line up before 90,000 on Wednesday. The Cornhuskers, beaten only by Minnesota, 13 to 7, are a more rugged appearing group, but in displacement and height they appear to be on a par with the team Shaughnessy directed to nine consecutive victories. Stanford, however, has the greater speed and more nifty backs. In Hugh Gallarneau, a 190 pound half back from Chicago's Morgan Park High school, who was drafted by the Chicago Bears, they have perhaps the most underrated ball carrier in the Pacific Coast conference.

BOSTON IS READY FOR TENNESSEE; AGGIES IN DALLAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Dec. 30.—Boston college and Tennessee, each boasting a record of ten straight victories, went thru their last hard workouts today for their meeting in the seventh annual Sugar Bowl game Wednesday. The easterners, cheered by the return to the lineup of Gene Goodreault, their All-America end, are training at Bay St. Louis and Tennessee, champion of the Southeastern conference, has been doing its conditioning work at nearby Edgewater Park.

Meanwhile, the vanguard of the crowd of 70,000, which will fill every seat in the Tulane stadium, is pouring into New Orleans. Luggage was piled high tonight in hotel lobbies as special trains unloaded hundreds of visitors wearing the colors of the Tennessee Volunteers or the Boston College Eagles. Heading the Tennessee delegation was Gov. Prentice Cooper. At the helm of the Boston party was that city's youthful mayor, Maurice J. Tobin.

Leahy Calls Boston Ready.

Frank Leahy, who was a regular tackle on Notre Dame's undefeated 1929 eleven, told several hundred fans at the quarter back luncheon today that his Boston college squad was physically and mentally poised. He said the return of Goodreault had given his group a psychological lift. Maj. Robert Neyland was unable to leave his Tennessee players to attend the luncheon, but Jack Joiner, publicity director for the Vols, reflected the attitude of the team when he said, "We've just got to win this one." Tennessee made a disappointing showing against Southern California in the Rose Bowl last New Year's and it doesn't intend to repeat the performance Wednesday.

Both teams will use starting lineups comprised mainly of seniors. Boston college has eight and Tennessee seven. The Eagles' battle front, in addition to Goodreault, includes another nationally known player, little Charlie O'Rourke, the team's star ball carrier and expert forward passer. It was O'Rourke's headwork in running back and forth in the end zone while giving Georgetown a safety that clinched victory and an undefeated season for his club. Matching Goodreault and O'Rourke in national prestige are Tennessee's Bob Suffridge, Ed Molinski, and Bobby Foxx. Suffridge and Molinski, both linemen, have made several all American selections and, in the opinion of Coach Neyland, Foxx is one of the best backs in the land.

Both Have Fine Records.

Boston college employs the Notre Dame system while Tennessee uses a style devised by Maj. Neyland, one of the most successful gridiron leaders in the country. His teams have won 118 games, lost only 13, and tied 12 in his 12 years with the Volunteers. Leahy, who had served as assistant coach at Michigan State and Fordham before his appointment as head coach at Boston college, has had a remarkable record in his two years as leader of the New England squad. His 1939 team, which climaxed its schedule against Clemson in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, won nine of its ten games, and his 1940 eleven has won ten straight.

All of the stadium's 70,000 seats have been sold. The caliber of competition, the charm of New Orleans and the business like fashion in which the enterprise is conducted have made this one of the greatest promotional achievements of our time.

In the Wake of the News

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 30.—There probably are valid objections to New Year's day football games, but lack of customer appeal isn't among them. . . . Stanford and Nebraska will play before 85,000 in the Rose bowl. Tennessee and Boston College will draw a capacity throng of 70,000 to the Sugar bowl, Texas A. and M. and Fordham will pull upwards of 45,000 to the Cotton bowl, and Mississippi State and Georgetown are expected to lure at least 30,000 tourists to the Orange bowl. . . . The growth and popularity of bowl games was an outstanding development of the last decade. . . . For years the Rose bowl had the field to itself. . . . Then came the Sugar bowl, Orange bowl, and Cotton bowl, to say nothing of the Sun bowl, Blossom bowl, and Pineapple bowl. . . . Sugar seems the most appropriate name, because that's the reason most of the universities lend their teams to these enterprises. . . . The Pacific Coast conference has a new deal in Rose bowl proceeds whereby all schools in the group share the revenue. . . . Receipts used to be divided on the following basis: one-third to the Pacific Coast team, one-third to the visiting team, and one-third to the Rose bowl committee. . . . Some universities have cleared close to $100,000 out of their Pasadena engagement. . . . This year, however, Stanford will get no more than $50,000, assuming that receipts will approximate last season's. . . .

And while we're discussing the Rose bowl this excerpt from a recent letter from Clark Shaughnessy, Stanford coach, may interest you: "I hope our boys put on a good exhibition and don't repeat their performance against California [Stanford defeated California, 13 to 7]. It developed after the California game that several Stanford players were in the first stages of influenza, which may explain in part their lack of dash and fire. I remember that 9 or 10 of the leading players complained of sore throats, which the doctor swabbed, but we didn't think much about it at the time. Then, too, California played a great game against us. We don't have the reserves that some of our rivals can muster. Perhaps Nebraska will wear us down." . . .

Since the Chicago Bears and Trainer Andrew Lotshaw whipped the Washington Redskins, 73 to 0, it is suspected that chronic Cub bellyachers are going to have trouble telling the same Dr. Lotshaw, their trainer, what he doesn't know about keeping athletes beeg and strong. . . . Two of the leading centers of the football season were Rudy Mucha of Washington and Ray Apolskis of Marquette. . . . They prepped together at Chicago's Fenger High school. . . . Press Agent Joseph C. Farrell tells the world about the Blackhawks, but doesn't tell the Blackhawks about himself. . . . Many of the players gave Joe Scotch whisky for Christmas, and Joe, a great bourbon sampler in his youth, tho now temperate, has tasted Scotch but once in his life.

Grab Bag.

When you pause to figure the whole thing out
Without any tips in advance,
Isn't life a kind of a grab bag
Where each of us takes his chance?
I mean like the old time grab bag
You found at every church fair,
You paid the price and then reached in

Remember just how you'd fumble around
Trying to imagine what each contained
Some of us pulled out the bigger things
Then became just a little bit miffed
When some one who drew a smaller one
Received a much nicer gift.

So, just as I say, isn't life like that,
A kind of a grab in the dark,
Reaching for something, we know not what,
And eventually find them a flop,
While those content with much smaller ones
Often come out on top!

Games Tonight

Notre Dame at Northwestern.
Bradley at U. C. L. A.
Creighton at Michigan State.
Drake at Iowa State.
Illinois vs. Marquette in Milwaukee.
Wisconsin vs. Princeton in Milwaukee.

Another chapter will be added to the athletic rivalry between Northwestern and Notre Dame tonight when the basketball teams of the two schools clash in the Evanston High school gymnasium before a capacity crowd. All tickets have been sold, but some seats may be available at the gate if the students do not fill up their section.

Tonight's game will be the 27th in a series dating from 1927 and finds the Irish holding an edge of 14 victories against 12 for the Wildcats. The rivalry has been so intense that in seven of the 13 years the teams have split the two annual games.

Both Have Able Sophomores.

Both teams will rely largely on veterans altho both possess sophomores who have turned in excellent performances. Charles Butler, Notre Dame's 6 foot 2 inch sophomore center from Mount Carmel High school, is scheduled to play a considerable part of the game, while the Wildcats expect much from Russ Wendland, a 6 foot guard from Peoria.

Watch Clawson, Clason.

Northwestern's hopes of turning back the Irish will rest largely on its two leading scorers, Don Clawson, rugged center, and Hank Clason, forward. Clawson has rolled up 26 points in three games while Clason has contributed 20 points.

2 GAMES IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 30 [Special].—A capacity crowd of 5,500 is expected tomorrow night, as Marquette university faces Illinois and Wisconsin meets Princeton in a basketball double header in the Milwaukee auditorium.

DEW, TAYLOR TIE FOR JOCKEY LEAD WITH 286

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 30 (AP).—Deadlocked with 286 winners each, Earl Dew and Walter Lee Taylor probably will decide the American riding championship tomorrow in the hottest jockey scramble of turf history.

Both little fellows had one winner today on widely separated race tracks. Taylor won on Locked Out in the second race at Tropical Park, Fla., and Dew triumphed in the second at Santa Anita in Arcadia, Cal., aboard Musical Jack. Taylor's mount paid $11 to win and Dew's $11.20.

Taylor was second with Astrid in the fourth and third with Star Bud in the eighth. Dew, giving a great exhibition of riding, was in the money in five races. He was third in the third on Stella Gold; third in the fourth on Brown China; third in the seventh on Bucket Head, and third in the eighth aboard Cynic Queen.

GAMES TONIGHT.
Austin vs. Du Sable, 7 p. m.
Tilden vs. Tuley, 8 p. m.

Austin's quintet, defending champion in the University of Chicago's twenty-third annual high school basketball tournament, will meet Du Sable, and Tilden, possessor of the high team score of 57 for this year's meet, will battle Tuley in the semi-final games tonight in the Midway fieldhouse. Tonight's winners will meet at 4 o'clock tomorrow for the championship, after tonight's losers have fought it out for third place at 2:30 p. m.

Austin qualified by overpowering Manley, 37 to 33. Du Sable, trailing at the half, outlasted Calumet, 31 to 20. Tilden put on a 14-point rally to overcome a 10 point Marshall lead at the half, Tilden going ahead to win 57 to 52. Tuley's alert play brought a 38 to 28 victory over Kelvyn Park, apparently somewhat off its game.

Tilden Sets Record.

Tilden's 57 points broke Marshall's previous 1940 high mark of 56 to 38, registered Saturday against Harrison. Bill Miller of Tuley and Henry Washington of Tilden, shared the day's individual scoring honors, with 19 points each. Both fell short of the 23 points counted by Herb Siegel for Marshall in Saturday's contest.

Austin led Manley 15 to 13, at the half, the west siders moving steadily ahead with George Felt accumulating 15 points to lead the scoring.

Calumet's race down the floor after Bill Sims had intentionally fouled Oscar Green, of Du Sable, was too late, and the lanky Negro team won handily after trailing Calumet, 11 to 13, at the half. Du Sable's spurt, good for 6 points at the start of the final quarter, stopped the tired far south siders. Bob Haarlow of Columet, led the scoring with 11 points.

Tilden's Rally Wins.

Tilden made a strong bid in asserting its championship caliber in the most exciting of the quarter-final games. It battled its way to win after Marshall's hard driving team

LEO WINS FINAL IN FENWICK PREP TOURNEY, 53-34

Leo High school, paced by Ray Egan with 22 points, defeated St. Michael's five last night, 53 to 34, to win the annual Fenwick All-Catholic holiday prep tournament in the Oak Park school's gym. Mount Carmel won third place by defeating St. Patrick's, 44 to 27, in the evening's first game.

Leo got away fast, assuming a 28 to 10 lead at the half, and stretched its margin to 48 to 19 in the third period. St. Michael rallied in the fourth quarter and ran up 11 straight points before Leo could count again.

Jerry Richards followed Egan's 10 baskets and two free throws with five field goals and two free throws to be second high man for Leo, but Pete Kuhn, St. Michael's guard, rang up five field goals and three free throws for second scoring honors. Kuhn, whose work was outstanding thruout the tournament, was awarded the prize for being the meet's most valuable player.

Columbus, O., Dec. 30 [Special].—Princeton's Tigers defeated Michigan's Wolverines, 30 to 29, in a hard fought battle in the Ohio Coliseum tonight in the first game of a double-header basketball card.

In the second game Pittsburgh whipped Ohio State, 48 to 34. The Buckeyes took a 12 to 3 lead in the first few minutes; then Pitt started. Pittsburgh led at half time, 23 to 14.

The game was rough and fast with 35 personal fouls, two double fouls, and a technical foul being called, the latter on Capt. Gil Mickelson, who was forced from the game on personals.

Misses Free Throw.

Princeton led Michigan thruout except for a minute in the second half when the Wolverines took a 20 to 19 lead. The first half ended with the Tigers ahead, 17 to 12.

It took the Wolverines most of the first half to solve the fast passing offense of the Tigers, but once they got going they made a game of it.

With less than a minute to go Capt. Herbert Brogan missed a foul goal which would have tied the score at 30-all. From here on there were three jump balls which took up the remaining time. Lineups:

INDIANA WINS, 48-45

New Orleans, La., Dec. 30 (AP).—The University of Indiana's national intercollegiate championship basketball team won the annual Sugar bowl title tonight by defeating the University of Kentucky, Southeastern conference leader, 48 to 45.

The game was witnessed by 7,500 fans, described as the largest ever to see a basketball game in New Orleans.

GOPHERS BEATEN, 46-43

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—George Washington university rallied in the last minute of play tonight to overcome a one point Minnesota lead and defeat the Gophers, 46 to 43, before 3,600 fans.

Trailing most of the way, the Gophers went ahead on a shot by Don Carlson. But the Colonials came back to regain the lead on a beautiful long shot by Joe Comer, the game's leading scorer with 16 points. Lou Veltri, Colonial guard, then clinched victory by getting loose under the basket.

RIGGS DEFEATS MULLOY IN SUGAR BOWL NET FINAL

New Orleans, La., Dec. 30 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago easily defeated Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., today to win the seventh annual Sugar Bowl tennis tournament, 6-2, 7-5, 6-0.

Riggs was in command from the start, as Mulloy made numerous errors and was unable to outmaneuver the master retriever who was seeded first in the tourney.

Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., and Jack Kramer of East Los Angeles then defeated Riggs and Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., for the doubles title, 9-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

AWARDS IN 1941 SILVER SKATES TO SET RECORD

Medals Will Be Given to Sixth Place Winners.

The largest list awards in the history of the Silver Skates awaits the place winners in the 24th annual derbies which will be held Jan. 18 and 19 in Garfield park.

The 1941 record rests chiefly on the inclusion of sixth place in the prize list for each of the eight races. With this increase there are 48 major awards in addition to two team trophies, more than 200 gold medals for competitors winning their preliminary races, and several thousand souvenir bronze buttons for all contestants reporting on the day of the races.

To be eligible to compete for the awards, you must submit your entry to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE before midnight Jan. 12. Even if the derbies are postponed because of unfavorable conditions, this entry list will determine eligibility when the races are held.

Teams to Get Trophies.

Eight pairs of silver skates—the championship award established in 1917 with credit to the story of Hans Brinker—go to the 1941 winners.

Chromium and bronze skates are the second and third place awards in each race. Silver medals are given to those finishing fourth; fifth and sixth place winners receive bronze medals.

The team trophies are the Walter Eckersall memorial cup for the championship squad and the trophy annually presented to the club which has the largest number of entries actually participating.

Registration Fee Waived.

There is no registration fee for the derbies altho skaters 16 years of age and over must belong to the Illinois Skating association which sanctions the meet.

The age limitations on the derbies and the distance skated respectively in the preliminaries and championships follow:

Boys' juvenile, 12 and 13 years: 220 yards and 440 yards.

MILD WEATHER MAY HALT SKATE MEET, TOMORROW

The state speed skating championship races, scheduled for Sunday at Glen Ellyn, may be the first meet to be held in the 10 Derby schedule for the 1940-'41 Illinois Skating association season, unless the temperature drops to zero within the next 24 hours.

With the Catholic Youth organization meet, which was to have been held last Sunday, postponed until weather permits in January, and the Northwest Skating club's 49th annual Derby and city championship meet, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon in Humboldt park, likely to be shifted to a later date, the first meet of the season is yet to be held.

Bob Burke's basket, which broke a see-saw race after Tilden's rush to catch up with the west siders, sparked the latters' offensive, along with Henry Washington's two baskets and free throw in the closing minutes.

Tuley won from Kelvyn Park when, after a single spurt in the first period Kelvyn Park's ball handling failed. Tuley held a 24 to 14 lead at the half. A pair of baskets by Bill Miller and a final free throw by Leo Felderbaum clinched the victory. Miller was high point man with 19. He has compiled a total of 62 points in his four games to date to lead the individual scoring. Felt of Austin ranks second with 57 in four games.

DAHLSTROM AND ALLEN READY TO PLAY FOR HAWKS

And They'll Face Wings in New Uniforms.

Games Tonight

New York Rangers at Boston.
Montreal at New York Americans.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

George Allen and Cully Dahlstrom, the Blackhawks' two leading scorers, will be ready to play in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night in the Hawks' contest with the Detroit Red Wings. Allen has been handicapped recently by injuries and Dahlstrom hasn't been in action since Dec. 14 because of an injured knee, a misfortune that kept him out of six games.

Word that the two stars would be ready to resume work was received by the team when it limped home yesterday from a discouraging road trip which saw them gain only one point in three games. They tied the world champion New York Rangers in the first match of their trip, 3 to 3; were whacked down by the Canadiens, 7 to 5, and Sunday night lost again to the Red Wings, 2 to 1. They were ahead in each of the games but weaknesses resulting from the scourge of injuries prevented them from staying in front.

Team Riddled by Injuries.

On his return yesterday, Manager Paul Thompson pointed out that he had not been able to muster his full force for more than a month. During that span Dahlstrom missed those six games and Mush March was out of five. Red MacKay missed four before he was shipped back to Providence, Max Bentley has missed two contests, Allen a game and a half, and John Chad one game. Art Wiebe and Joe Cooper should have been given layoffs but played out because of the riddled condition of the squad.

In the game tomorrow night, the Hawks will don their new uniforms for the first time on home ice. The sweaters are much brighter than any ever worn by a Hawk team.

Chicagoans Seek Revenge.

The Hawk management yesterday denied the change in raiment had been made as a hoped-for good luck charm. It is said that the Hawks in recent games have had trouble distinguishing their own teammates in the heat of power plays. The new outfits are expected to remove some of this confusion.

The Hawks really need a victory over the Detroiters. Last season the Chicagoans did not lose any of their eight engagements with the Wings. Thus far this season the teams have played three games and the Wings were victors in all of them.

The playing of the game tomorrow night means a lot of work for the Stadium building crew. The boys must tear down the Sonja Henie setup after tonight's show, put in the hockey ice and setup, then, after the game, restore the Henie fixtures in time for Thursday night's ice revue.

Flu Attack May Stymie Little in Los Angeles Open

Monterey, Cal., Dec. 30 (AP).—Lawson Little, National Open golf champion, was confined to bed today suffering from influenza at the home of his parents, Col. and Mrs. Lawson Little. Dr. Mast Wolfson said he doubted if the golfer would be able to defend his Los Angeles open title in the southern California tournament Jan. 3.

Here's how

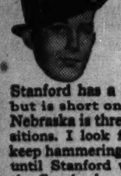
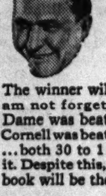
ROSE BOWL
Stanford-Nebraska



Henry McLemore
U. P. Sports Writer

Stanford has a great first team but is short on replacements. Nebraska is three deep at all positions. I look for Nebraska to keep hammering and hammering until Stanford weakens. I pick the Cornhuskers to win.

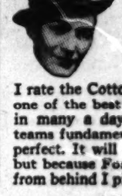
SUGAR BOWL
Boston College-Tennessee



Joe Williams
Famous Sports Columnist

The winner will be Tennessee. I am not forgetting that Notre Dame was beaten by Iowa, that Cornell was beaten by Dartmouth ... both 30 to 1 shots, or close to it. Despite this, the winner in my book will be the Volunteers.

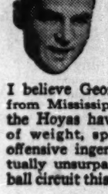
COTTON BOWL
Texas A. & M.-Fordham



Ted Husing
Dean of Sports Broadcasters

I rate the Cotton Bowl game as one of the best balanced games in many a day. Here are two teams fundamentally sound and perfect. It will be a hard game but because Fordham can come from behind I pick the Rams.

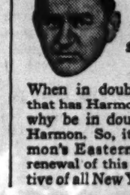
ORANGE BOWL
Georgetown-Mississippi St.



Eddie Dooley
Noted Football Writer

I believe Georgetown will win from Mississippi State because the Hoyas have a combination of weight, speed, power and offensive ingenuity that is virtually unsurpassed in the football circuit this year.

EAST-WEST
College All Stars



Joe Val
Sports Editor N.Y. World-Telegram

When in doubt, pick the side that has Harmon. Or better still, why be in doubt? Always pick Harmon. So, it looks like Harmon's Easterners in the 16th renewal of this most representative of all New Year's Day games.

BOSTON IS READY FOR TENNESSEE; AGGIES IN DALLAS

plete the cast for the fifth annual Cotton bowl game New Year's afternoon. The boys from Fordham have been here since last Friday, altho there has been no necessity for a publicity campaign since all of the 45,507 seats in the bowl have been sold.

The junior chamber of commerce welcoming committee, wearing official regalia of ten gallon hats, chaps, and shooters, boarded the Aggies' train at Ennis and later joined with Mayor Woodall Rodgers and officials of the Cotton Bowl Athletic association in the civic reception in Union terminal.

May Net Rams $65,000.

After all the hoopla was over, Coach Homer Norton took his lads to the S. M. U. stadium for a bit of work. In the meantime the Rams had gone thru their final hard drill at the Dallas High school field.

Enthusiasm of Dallas citizens for the Cotton bowl game stems from the reorganization of the game which was established and conducted for four years by J. Curtis Sanford. The association, which has taken over, sponsors this Fordham-Texas Aggies game jointly with the Southwest conference. The conference receives $5,000, and of the remainder, the association gets 15 per cent for rental of the stadium and the competing teams each 42½ per cent. Fordham originally was guaranteed $45,000 [$10,000 more than Miami, Fla., offered the Rams to play in the Orange bowl] but actually probably will get about $65,000.

The man on the street is interested only because a real battle is promised. Already consensus has it that Kimbrough et al. will be hard pressed to outscore Fordham's passing attack featuring Steve Filipowicz's throwing.

Aggies Are Favorites.

Kimbrough is nationally known because of his superb play last year, which was climaxed in the Aggies' victory over Tulane in the Sugar bowl and, of course, his performance this year. However, Kimbrough's plunging also is background for an excellent running and passing attack. Marland Jeffrey can throw touchdowns—and has—as well as Fordham's Filipowicz.

The Aggies probably will be an 8 to 5 choice by Wednesday. There is no great amount of betting, however, principally because there is no eastern money.

EVERT CAPTURES NATIONAL JUNIOR TENNIS TITLE

Camden, N. J., Dec. 30 [Special].—Jimmy Evert, of Senn High school in Chicago, tonight ended the east's three year indoor junior tennis reign by defeating Dick Bender, Princeton freshman, in the finals of the 26th annual national tourney. The match lasted one hour and 30 minutes, and the scores were 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Evert, 17 year old senior, succeeds Bill Umstaedter of Millbourne, N. J., who was not eligible to defend his crown. Evert has another year while Bender, last year's defeated finalist, leaves the junior ranks.

New College Ski Jumper Scores Surprise Victory

Lake Placid, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP).—Bobby Rand of St. Lawrence university surprised a field of more experienced ski jumpers today by winning the opening event of the annual college week invitation ski tournament. Competing in the jump for the first time, Rand put together leaps of 33 and 37 meters to beat out Henry Hansen, University of Minnesota.

Loyola Academy Five Beats Boys Town, 40-20

Loyola academy defeated the Boys Town basketball team of Omaha, Neb., last night in the north side gymnasium, 40 to 20. Loyola led, 21 to 6, at the half. Adams, visiting forward, was high scorer with 12 points.

INJURIES, DEATHS DUE TO FOOTBALL DECREASE IN '40

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Amid rumors about which coach is going to land where—including one that Francis Schmidt would return to the southwest—the country's collegiate athletic heads started their official business today, with national defense as the theme.

For most of the day, delegates to the Football Coaches' association and National Collegiate Athletic association convention heard speeches about how collegiate athletics can help national defense. Then they received an official statistical report of 1940 football casualties which tended to show the gridiron game is becoming safer for players all the time.

Prof. Floyd Eastwood of Purdue, who made his annual report on football casualties, stated that 12 deaths, either directly or indirectly due to football, occurred during the season, and that 1,391, players were injured. Both surveys showed average decreases from previous years.

Urges Long Training.

Eastwood's report on fatalities recommended continued emphasis on warmup periods, three or more weeks of preseason training, liberal replacements during the fourth period of a game, exacting care of minor cuts and bruises, and skilful execution of tackling and blacking.

His report showed eight deaths were attributed directly to football, only one of them in collegiate games, however, and four were indirectly caused by the game. Last year, 18 deaths were attributed to the gridiron, directly or indirectly, and this year's even dozen was the smallest total in 10 seasons in which Prof. Eastwood has made his survey.

On injuries, he explained this year's survey was the largest ever, covering enrollment of 220,307 students in 186 schools in 42 states. Altho 1,391 injuries were reported, he added, "the number of injuries dropped to 111.9 per thousand players" compared to the 150 per thousand average of 1935.

Dartmouth Seeks McLaughry.

There were reports that Tuss McLaughry, for 15 years coach at Brown university, was definitely slated for the Dartmouth vacancy, left when Red Blaik went to Army a week ago, and that Yale was ready to announce the retention of Raymond W. [Ducky] Pond.

The N. C. A. A. announced approved dates and sites for its national championships in 1941, headed by the important track meet at Stanford university June 20 and 21.

Dick Harlow of Harvard, reporting for the public relations committee, suggested continued efforts to stop drinking at football games and urged coaches to refuse to make predictions as a possible means to cut down on gambling on football. He also recommended a uniform system of numbering players, one of nine rules changes suggested yesterday by the coaches' rules committee.

Mamakos Due Saturday to Battle Zale

Steve Mamakos, Washington, D. C., 156 pound fighter, will arrive Saturday for a 10 round nontitle bout with Tony Zale, middleweight champion, in Chicago Stadium Jan. 10. Promoter Bill Rand made this announcement yesterday after he had sent Steve transportation expenses.

In taking this action Rand tried to convey the impression that he isn't worrying about Zale's scheduled 10 round overweight contest with Tony [Cinaciola] Martin in Milwaukee tomorrow afternoon.

The promoter was reminded that if Zale doesn't have a good day he is liable to be licked by Martin.

Sam Pian, one of Zale's managers, will go to Milwaukee today to help supervise Tony's last workout for the Martin match tomorrow. . . . Leo Rodak is matched with Herschel Joiner for a 10 round event in Cincinnati Jan. 7. . . . Jimmy Tygh, Philadelphia lightweight, last night was signed to fight Mike Gamiere of Cleveland in a 10 round headliner in Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . Eddie Lander, Chicago boxer, and Miss Bernice Whiteman will be married Nov. 15.

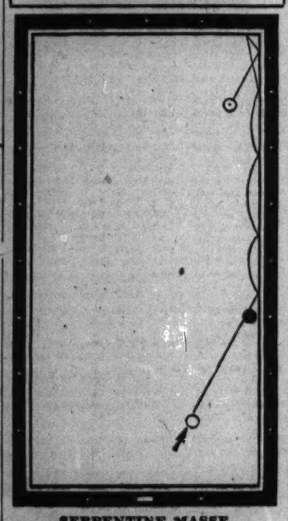
Melio Bettina, Beacon, N. Y., and Anton Christoforidis, Greece, will sign today for a 15 round light heavyweight elimination bout in Cleveland Jan. 13.

The survivor will earn the right to oppose Gus Lesnovich for a claim to the 175 pound title in a subsequent match.

When Billy Conn makes formal renouncement of the championship, the claimant will be recognized as Conn's successor, Joe Triner, president of the National Boxing association said last night.

Triner will attend today's signing ceremonies in Cleveland.

Shots of the Stars



SERPENTINE MASSE.

[This is the second of a series of sketches on the specialty shots which competitors in the world three cushion billiards tournament, opening Jan. 13 in Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue, are expected to play.]

When Jake Schaefer meets Willie Hoppe next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in their special pre-tournament challenge match, Schaefer can be expected to come up with one shot every time it presents itself—the serpentine masse. Jake is recognized as the ablest practitioner of this difficult shot the game has today, and Hoppe is one of the first to admit his challenger's gift in this department.

The serpentine masse requires controlled power, culminating with a short, strong nip and sending the cue ball running along the rail at a terrific rate of speed. The above illustration shows the ball touching the cushion in six places, altho the manner in which Schaefer executes it, the ball may strike the cushion as many as ten times.

Vinciquerra Whips Greene by Knockout

Carl Vinciquerra survived three knockdowns in the first round to knock out Frank Greene in the second round of an exciting bout which concluded the 1940 season in Marigold Gardens last night.

Greene was floored three times in the final round before Referee Tommy Thomas counted him out after 2 minutes 11 seconds of the session had elapsed.

The crowd of 1,322, which paid a gross gate of $1,537.06, went wild when Vinciquerra, unbeaten in 1940, was sent to the canvas as a result of a series of blows to the jaw shortly after the fight started. Following two more trips to the floor, however, Carl recovered and at the bell landed a right to the jaw which stung Greene.

WHITE SOX LOSE ROOKIE PITCHER IN ARMY DRAFT

The White Sox yesterday claimed the distinction of being the first major league club to have a player lopped from its roster by the new selective service act. Eugene Stack, 22 year old right hander of Saginaw, Mich., has been ordered to report Jan. 7 at Camp Custer, Mich., for military training.

Stack was purchased last fall from the Lubbock, Tex., club upon the recommendation of Billy Webb, supervisor of the Sox farm system, who tabbed the youngster as an exceptional prospect.

He was in 31 games last season, 24 of them being complete jobs. He won 19 and lost 11 and won four more in the league playoffs. In 246 innings, Stack piled up 238 strikeouts.

Bruins to Hold Final Practice for Sheboygan

Still smarting from the two defeats suffered in Akron and determined to get back on the victory path against the Sheboygan Redskins whom they meet in a National Basketball league contest in the 132d Regiment armory tomorrow night, the Chicago Bruins scheduled another practice session for this afternoon on the armory court.

Tomorrow night's Bruin-Sheboygan battle will start at 9 o'clock. At 7:45 p. m. the East Chicago Forszts will meet the Palmer House Indians in the Windy City league opening game.

Coach Frank Linskey sent the team thru a hard scrimmage during the two hour drill last night. Offensively, the Bruin coach has little to complain about but on defense the Bruin director is not content. In the last four games the team has registered 166 points, but has lost three decisions.

The Sheboygan team which invades the armory tomorrow evening leads the Bruins in the league standings having won five and lost four while the Chicagoans were winning three and losing three. If the Bruins make it two in a row over the Redskins—they defeated the latter 27 to 20 on their home floor—they will move into third place with a chance to advance to second place, if Sheboygan beats the Goodyear team Thursday night.

Wibs Kautz, high scorer for the Bruins with 68 points in six games, will be in the Bruins' lineup. At least, Linskey is almost certain that the star will have recovered from leg and shoulder injuries suffered in Akron when the Bruins were losing to the Firestones, 46 to 45 Friday and Goodyear, 40 to 38, on Saturday.

YANKEES SELL MONTE PEARSON TO CINCINNATI

New York, Dec. 30 [Special.]—Monte Pearson, the right handed curve ball specialist who played an important part in the Yankees' drive to four successive pennants and world championships, was sold today to the world champion Cincinnati Reds for an undisclosed sum and Don Lang, a young third baseman who was with Indianapolis last season. Guesses are that the Yankees got $25,000.

In announcing the sale, Ed Barrow, Yankee president, said it was an outright deal, with no conditions. Brooklyn also bid for Pearson but dropped out when the Yankees refused to sell him on a conditional basis.

Shoulder Keeps Him Out.

Pearson did not pitch for the Yankees after July 24 last season because of a lame shoulder. Whether he is sound now or not will have to be determined in the spring training camp.

He got into 16 games, winning seven and losing six. His last winning game was on July 17, when he beat Bob Feller and the Indians, 4 to 3, in 13 innings.

In sound physical condition, Pearson is considered one of the best pitchers in baseball. He is only 31 years old, and has a wide variety of stuff.

His Debut Is Success.

Pearson's best year was in 1936, his first year with the Yankees, when he won 19 games, lost 7 and had an earned run average of 3.71. The best after that was in 1938, when he won 16 and lost 7. With Cleveland in 1934 he won 18 and lost 13. In eight years with Cleveland and the Yankees he won 99 games and lost 59.

Pearson came to the Yanks on Dec. 11, 1935, along with Steve Sundra, in a trade for Johnny Allen, who only recently was sold to the Browns by the Indians.

PUZZLE OF MONDAY, DECEMBER 30, SOLVED

You can't really taste the full flavor when it's disguised by over-chilling

RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster

HOW TO MAKE THE "50-DEGREES" TEST
Which has turned thousands to the all-grain flavor of Meister Bräu

Take a bottle of Meister Bräu and one of any other beer at average refrigerator temperature. Let stand until it's the proper temperature. Then open and compare flavors. Use an ordinary food thermometer such as you can get at a ten-cent store.

Ask for Meister Bräu Draft Beer. Bars take special care to serve it at the proper temperature.

DRINK YOUR BEER AT 50 DEGREES

—to enjoy all its honest flavor . . . or to compare brands expertly

FOLKS who over-chill their beer don't get full enjoyment out of it. They miss so much of the flavor they really can't tell whether they like the beer they're drinking or not.

Beer flavor—good or bad—shows up at 50 degrees temperature. Cold disguises the flavor. You taste the cold more than you taste the beer. Warm it up a little and you taste delicious richness you never knew was there. This enables anyone to compare beers and find the best.

We have been making beer to suit the 50-degree drinkers for 49 years. Won't add sugars or syrups to the brew, and bottle with only natural draft beer carbonation created in the brew itself—so Meister Bräu has natural life and sparkle—true all-grain flavor. We've pleased the "beer cranks"—and a lot of other folks too. More people buy it every day.

I wish you'd taste and compare beer flavors with the "50-degrees" test. I'm sure you'd be delighted with the delicious flavor of Meister Bräu. And, I doubt if you would ever again say "Give me a bottle of Beer"—you'll ask for Meister Bräu.

DEFENSE GROUP REPORTS LARGE ARMS SPEEDUP

Million Given Jobs in Last 2 Months.

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP).—The defense commission reported today that the nation's arms output was up to 2,400 aircraft engines, 700 planes, more than 10,000 semi-automatic rifles and 100 tanks a month.

The defense program, the commission said, already had put a million persons to work in the last two months, and "several million more will be needed by next November."

The agency reported that it had approved contracts totaling more than 10 billion dollars and that the army and navy had awarded nine-tenths of these, including $3,300,000,000 for ships, $1,500,000,000 for factory expansion and housing, $1,500,000,000 for planes and parts, $600,000,000 for ammunition, $500,000,000 for guns and $400,000,000 for trucks and tanks.

Vast Commitments Made.

These contracts, plus those placed by the British and other nations, commit American industry to produce 50,000 airplanes and 130,000 airplane engines; 9,200 tanks; 2,055,000 guns of all kinds and their ammunition; 380 navy ships; 200 mercantile ships; 210 camps and contonments; clothing and equipment for 1,200,000 men and 50,000 trucks.

Also under contract are 40 government factories, among them the first mass production tank factory in the world; five explosive plants, six ammunition plants, and five machine gun factories.

Gun contracts embrace 400,000 automatic rifles, 1,300,000 regular rifles, 17,000 heavy guns, 25,000 light guns, 13,000 trench mortars, and 300,000 machine guns. Other contracts call for 33,000,000 loaded shells.

Another item in the announcement was that a new fighting ship slides down the ways every 12 days to join the navy.

Follows President's Appeal.

The report, designed to give the public a summary of the commission's work since its formation last May, was released not many hours after President Roosevelt informed the nation that armament production to date was "not enough" to meet the heavy demands and that "more of everything" was needed fast.

The commission said that in the last six months stock piles of such strategic materials as tin, antimony, manganese, tungsten, and chrome ore had been accumulated, production of synthetic materials encouraged, and expansion of facilities to produce aluminum undertaken on a large scale.

Col. John H. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, said today that the government "may rely upon steady increases in production" of warplanes by the nation's aircraft manufacturers. In a statement issued in connection with President Roosevelt's plea for increased output of munitions, Jouett said "the aircraft industry thoroly understands the grave responsibilities facing it." The last year, he said, "was a period of preparation and expansion" during which factory space was doubled and personnel tripled.

Auto Firms Considered Plan

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 30 [Special].—At the request of the national defense commission, the General Motors, Chrysler and Ford companies are considering assuming responsibility for supplying nonengine parts and subassemblies for 3,000 to 4,000 warplanes, it was learned today. The automobile companies are expected to act as subcontractors, shipping parts to government plants for construction into finished planes, with aviation manufacturers holding primary contracts.

Large Production Forecast.

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 30 (AP).—The Harrington and Richardson Arms company announced today that it expected to be producing 500 new type, 6½ pound submachine guns daily by Feb. 1, and 1,000 a day by April 1. The company said the weapon weighs 50 per cent less and costs 60 per cent less than the present accepted military type, yet is capable of 500 shots a minute.

Speed Mass Production

New York, Dec. 30—(AP)—[Special].—G. W. Vaughan, president of Curtiss-Wright corporation, today announced that mass production at the Curtiss airplane division at Buffalo, N. Y., had reached the point where it is possible to deliver 8 freighter planes daily to Great Britain.

Canada Sells 285 Millions of Notes, Treasury Bills

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 30 [Special].—Finance Minister Ilsley announced today the sale of $250,000,000 of notes to Canadian chartered banks. The notes, bearing 1½ per cent interest for 2½ years, were sold to the banks at 99.695 and accrued interest, representing a yield of 1⅝ per cent to maturity. The Bank of Canada announced sale of $35,000,000 of Dominion of Canada treasury bills due April 2, 1941 at an average yield of 0.643 per cent.

Retailers Demand Place in State Defense Council

The Illinois Federation of Retail Associations protested to Gov. John Stelle yesterday because, it said, no person representing the retail phase of business was included in appointments to the recently formed state defense council. "Retailers are doing all within their power to combat unwarranted price increases which are always a threatening by-product of emergencies," the organization said.

FORECAST LARGE FEDERAL LOSSES ON GRAIN LOANS

The Commodity Credit corporation, government loan agency, stands to lose 5 to 12 cents a bushel on the 221 million bushels of wheat on which it made loans in 1940 that were not redeemed, grain men said yesterday. In addition, it faces a potential loss of 10 cents a bushel on 190 million bushels of corn.

The government announced Sunday that it would not extend grower loans on unredeemed 1940 wheat and barley stored in commercial warehouses, but would take delivery of such grain as full payment of farmers' obligations.

Varying Amounts Loaned.

The corporation lent wheat farmers varying amounts for a term of eight months, or to April 30, 1941, whichever date provided the earlier maturity for the loan. The amount of the loan depended on the state and locality in which it was grown, factors which determine its market value.

The corporation stated that the wheat could not be sold for less than the loan value, plus charges. Storage charges total ¾ cent a bushel per month, and clerical and other charges exclusive of freight are estimated at ¼ cent per bushel.

So far this year the market price has not advanced sufficiently to enable growers to sell the wheat on which they received government loans. At times, the price has almost reached levels at which this grain could be sold profitably, but the market has plummeted almost immediately.

War Cuts Exports in Half.

The war more than halved exports while the volume of supplies not under loan has proved more than sufficient for domestic needs. Hence, traders said, there is no market for government owned wheat. A small amount held in commercial warehouse in Chicago can be sold at a small profit on the basis of the present market, but grain stored in the northwest and southwest will be taken over by the government at a loss, traders asserted.

An advance sufficient to create a market for the 221 million bushels of loan wheat in commercial warehouses seems improbable in view of the lost export markets and the favorable 1941 crop prospects, grain men said.

Most Indices of Chicago's Business Rise in November

Most lines of business and industry in Chicago in November showed improvement as compared with the 1939 month, according to a Chicago Association of Commerce survey, results of which were announced yesterday. An exception to the trend was the dollar volume of construction as indicated by building permits, which fell more than 60 per cent to $3,693,057 last month from $9,388,690 a year earlier. The number of permits was barely higher at 359, against 354.

Department store sales recorded a sizable increase, and pay rolls in Chicago factories expanded, as did steel production and activity at the stock yards.

The number of new automobiles bought in Cook county increased more than 32 per cent, the association reported, and freight car loadings, electric power use and traffic on the transit systems all showed gains.

MARKET QUOTAS ON '41 CORN CROP MAY BE SOUGHT

The government may ask midwestern farmers to vote for the adoption of marketing quotas for the 1941 corn crop, Elmer Messman, Agricultural Adjustment administration field man at Bloomington, told McLean county AAA committeemen yesterday. Messman said that corn supplies this fall had been near the point at which a referendum would have been called and that farmers should consider the possibility of a marketing quota referendum next September.

The quota system limits the amount of corn each farmer can sell, providing penalties of 15 cents a bushel on sales in excess of quotas.

While the quota system requires approval of 67 per cent of the farmers voting, the government holds the upper hand in that if quotas are not approved, the corn loan program would be automatically discontinued.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC ON GREAT LAKES BREAKS RECORDS

Cleveland, O., Dec. 30 (AP).—Bulk freight traffic on the Great Lakes for the 1940 season exceeded the 1929 peak of 138,574,441 net tons by at least 4,250,000 tons, the Lake Carriers' association announced today.

"Amazingly large" trade in soft coal accounted for the new record, President A. T. Wood said. He estimated movement of this commodity at 46,500,000 tons, compared with a former record of 44,010,585 tons in 1936 and 37,933,249 tons in 1929.

Disrupted export trade resulted in a decline in grain shipments to 9,644,950 net tons, or 335,860,757 bushels—about 48,000,000 bushels less than for 1939, the association said.

CUDAHY GIVEN $792,865 NAVY FATS CONTRACT

Two Chicago Firms Get Army Orders.

Cudahy Packing company, Chicago, yesterday was awarded a $792,865 contract to supply vegetable shortening to the navy. Smaller orders placed by the army were shared by other Chicago companies.

Officials of Cudahy said last night they had not been notified of the order and consequently could not give any details. They said the shortening, made chiefly from cottonseed oil, might be filled at the Memphis, Tenn., or west coast plants, depending on the delivery point. The company does not produce vegetable shortening in Chicago.

Carson Pirie Scott & Co., Chicago, received a war department order for $19,018 of underwear, and Ed V. Price & Co., also of Chicago, was awarded a contract to supply the army with 5,000 wool service coats for $20,850.

Bids Low on Target Paper.

Zellerbach Paper company, Chicago, was among the low bidders on contracts sought by the Rock Island, Ill., arsenal on a total of 4,320,000 sheets of target paper. The company bid $4.85 per 1,000 sheets of the 20½ by 24 inch size. The low bidder on another size was an out of state company. Bates Shoe company, Worcester, Mass., was the apparent low bidder on linings for a maximum of 481,000 army helmets at $1.46½ each.

Army orders placed with companies elsewhere in Illinois included: To Peoria Malleable Castings company, Peoria, thumb nuts, $1,881, and Barber-Colman company, Rockford, cutters, $1,309.

The Illinois Manufacturers association said in a review that army and navy contracts totaling $10,621,860 were awarded to Illinois companies in the week ended Dec. 21.

5½ Month Total 301 Million.

A survey by the office of government reports at Washington, D. C., showed that contracts and expenditures in Illinois under the national defense program between July 1 and Dec. 15 totaled $301,347,442. Included were: army contracts, $261,984,782; navy contracts, $33,368,207; WPA defense projects, $2,968,452, and United States Housing authority defense housing projects, $3,026,000.

Yesterday's announcements of war department contracts to companies in states other than Illinois included one group totaling $2,634,614 and covering temporary housing at Fort Niagara, N. Y., $179,000; photographic supplies, $240,260; parts for airplanes, $237,875; aircraft engine fuel, $101,250, and truck oil servicing, $202,230. The truck oil servicing contract went to Heil company, Milwaukee, Wis.

Buys More Waterfront.

Sun Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, Chester, Pa., bought 945 feet of additional waterfront along the Delaware river at Chester in connection with a $2,500,000 expansion of shipbuilding facilities.

American Locomotive company announced at New York that it received from Union Pacific railroad an order for 15 freight locomotives. The engines, each weighing 750,000 pounds, will be built at the Schenectady, N. Y., plant. The dollar amount of the order was not stated.

Railway Age said the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railroad has ordered 1,250 freight cars, with the contracts being shared by General American Transportation corporation, American Car and Foundry company, Ralston Steel Car company, and Mount Vernon Car Manufacturing company.

Acme Steel Co. Announces Series of Executive Changes

Changes and promotions involving all of the major executive positions of Acme Steel company, Chicago manufacturer of ship steel, have been made and will become effective tomorrow, it was learned yesterday.

Acme's founder, James E. MacMurray, who merged two companies to form the present organization 51 years ago and who, as chairman of the board has been inactive in the management in the last few years, has retired from the chairmanship. He will remain a member of the board.

Ralph H. Norton, who has been president for 18 years, will become chairman of the board. A majority owner of the company's stock, he as chairman will continue to participate actively in the management.

Norton joined Acme in a production and engineering capacity in 1904, when the company had less than two score employés, compared with more than 3,000 in its now nation-wide organization. The company has two plants, one at 2840 Archer avenue, where the general offices are located, and the other at Riverdale. It has branches or offices in all principal cities in the United States.

The new president will be Charles S. Traer, who has been vice president in charge of production, and manager of the Riverdale plant since 1919. Traer has been with Acme since 1915.

Other changes in the executive personnel were necessitated by the retirement of Frederick C. Gifford, who was first vice president and director of sales. He retired because of ill health. He will remain a member of the board, however.

Chester M. MacChesney is the new first vice president and will continue as secretary.

Carl J. Sharp, vice president, who also was treasurer, will take over Gifford's duties as director of sales, and will give up the post of treasurer.

Thornton A. Rand, formerly assistant treasurer and assistant secretary, will become treasurer and continue as assistant secretary.

Std. Gas Units Plan 53 Million of Construction

Public utility operating companies in the Standard Gas and Electric company system yesterday announced a preliminary and tentative construction budget for 1941 of $53,807,229. This sum included $23,702,052, which it was estimated would be carried over from the 1940 construction budget on projects not completed during the year.

The system said there was a possibility that further additions to the 1941 budget might be made, if conditions warranted.

Plans 8 Major Projects.

Included in the preliminary budget were eight major projects. They were:

Duquesne Light company—completion of a 60,000 kilowatt capacity unit in the James H. Reed station at Pittsburgh; a new generating station of 60,000 kilowatt capacity at Wireton.

San Diego Gas and Electric company—An additional boiler to be installed in station B at San Diego; a new steam generating station of 35,000 kilowatt capacity in San Diego.

PHONE BUDGET BOOSTED.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 30—(AP)—The National Defense Program has so increased telephone service requirements that the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania plans to spend nearly $30,000,000 in construction work next year, an increase of $5,000,000 over 1940 expenditures.

Philip C. Staples, president, said the company, was cooperating with the government in providing telephone facilities at the Philadelphia navy yard, the quartermaster depot, camps, airfields, arsenals and munitions plants.

Steel Output Rebounds from Holiday Slump

CLASS 1 RAILROADS REPORT 11 MONTH NET PROFIT OF 127 MILLION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—The Association of American Railroads reported today that class one railroads earned a net income of approximately $127,600,000 in the first 11 months of this year.

The association said earnings before interest and rentals came to $598,201,070 thru November, compared with $527,847,779 in the corresponding period of 1939.

Gross operating revenues were placed at $3,914,808,946 compared with $3,649,823,992 in 1939. Operating expenses amounted to $2,823,340,000, compared with $2,669,203,173 last year.

Net railway operating income was $71,098,917 in November of this year, a slight increase over the $70,414,616 in the same month last year.

OFFER TO REFUND COLOMBIAN DEBT IN UNITED STATES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—The Colombian government has made an offer to adjust its debt to private United States interests which loaned it $60,000,000 in 1927 and 1928, the state department announced tonight.

Negotiations have been in progress for a year between the Colombian government and the Foreign Bondholders' Protective Council, Inc., of New York, with the state and treasury departments and the Federal loan administration acting as intermediaries.

The Colombian government offers to refund the principal of $44,000,000, which is outstanding, and accumulated interest at 3 per cent with new 3 per cent bonds of a maturity of 25 to 30 years.

GRAIN FUTURES LOSE MOST OF EARLY ADVANCE

The firm undertone which prevailed in the grain markets late last week, carried over into the early part of yesterday's session on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat, corn, and oats added small fractions of a cent a bushel to the upturn of the preceding week and were highest since early in December.

Profit taking trimmed early gains and on wheat closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. Corn was ⅛ cent a bushel higher.

War Allied Shares Lead Upturn.

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—The stock market extended its year-end recovery today as tax selling waned. Gains ranged from fractions to about 2 points, although most of them were cut in many instances at the close. Issues allied with defense industries were most prominent on the advance, but nearly all classes participated in the recovery. Transfers totaled 1,179,277, against 1,272,710 last Friday.

Reasons advanced for the further comeback trend varied. Part of the bullishness was attributed to the President's blast at the dictators and his opinion that the axis powers were certain losers; to indications armament spending would be stepped up briskly, and to the generally right prospects for business and industry.

Other Favorable Factors.

Bolstering sentiment was an estimate of a sharp gain in this week's steel mill operations, reports that new orders received by manufacturers in November rose to a new peak for the second consecutive month, and forecasts that retail volumes would continue on the upgrade and automobile production in the first 1941 month would remain near capacity levels.

New 1940 highs included Timken-Detroit Axle and Mack Truck. These, like a number of others, apparently were bought on the idea they would benefit from large war orders.

Among the best gainers were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Dow Chemical, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, American Can, Air Reduction, Kennecott, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, New York Central, Chrysler, Yellow Truck, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, and Consolidated Edison.

RESERVE BOARD HEAD HINTS 'BIG MONEY MOVE'

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board said today he was considering a step of a "banking and monetary nature" within a few days, but declined to say what it was.

Earlier Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau had said flatly that Eccles had decided on the action, but the federal reserve head told reporters that the reason he could not discuss the plan with them was that he might never carry it out.

Despite persistent refusal of Eccles and other federal reserve officials to give any hint of the contemplated action, they left unchallenged a suggestion that the plan might be an attempt to reduce the amount of idle bank money in the country by increasing bank reserve requirements.
